durability of structural materials explains how mechanical material behavior relates to the design of structural machine components the major emphasis is on fatigue and failure behavior using engineering models that have been developed to predict in advance of service acceptable fatigue and other durability related lifetimes the book covers broad classes of materials used for high performance structural applications such as aerospace components automobiles and power generation systems coverage focuses on metallic materials but also addresses unique capabilities of important nonmetals the concepts are applied to behavior at room or ambient temperatures a planned second volume will address behavior at higher temperatures the volume is a repository of the most significant contributions by the authors to the art and science of material and structural durability over the past half century during their careers including 40 years of direct collaboration they have developed a host of durability models that are based on sound physical and engineering principles yet the models and interpretation of behavior have a unique simplicity that is appreciated by the practicing engineer as well as the beginning student in addition to their own pioneering work the authors also present the work of numerous others who have provided useful results young people making a successful transition through a high quality and valued pathway can mean a successful career becoming trapped in poor quality and under valued alternatives can mean a lifetime of poverty this report is about young people and social mobility and focuses on how to ensure that all young people are offered a high quality career path after they leave school we have found that the current policy structure means a large number of young people do not have good options and are not supported to make a choice which works for them and is successful an increasing number of young people leave school and go on to a levels and university of the others a small minority are at risk of dropping out of education employment or training the needs successive governments have focused on these two groups for a long time but the majority of young people in the uk do not fall into either group they do not go to university they find jobs or they continue with some form of vocational education despite making up the majority of the emerging workforce they have received much less attention it is these young people who are the focus of this report the current system for young people who do not follow an academic route is complex and incoherent with confusing incentives for young people and employers careers advice and education are being delivered

Sustainable employment 2008-02-28 this report examines the reasons why people are unlikely to stay in work the contribution which education is making to improving employability and whether employment programmes reflect the needs of business and local markets although the uk has high employment levels many people have difficulty staying in work of the 2.4 million jobseeker's allowance claimants made each year over two thirds are repeat claims the department for work and pensions dwp and the department for innovation universities and skills have been slow to develop suitable shared objectives and targets for sustainable employment employment the dwp has used 13 weeks in work as a yardstick for sustained employment but it now accepts that this measure is too short the government has set targets to be achieved by 2020 95 per cent of adults to achieve functional literacy and numeracy skills the levels needed to get by in life and at work and 90 per cent to achieve a first full level 2 qualification equivalent to 5 gcse's at grades a-c the departments hope to achieve these goals by introducing skills screening for benefits recipients relaxing rules that restrict access to training provision for people on benefits promoting better integration and take up of pre work and in work training increasing government funding for basic skills training and launching a new skills account to give adult learners greater choice and control over learning through skills accounts learners will be able to purchase using public money relevant learning at an accredited quality assured provider of their choice around a third of employers do not invest in training although the number of employers who say that they are training their staff has increased slightly people with the lowest skills are the least likely to be trained by their employers
