is intended to be used as a resource for a range of professionals parents and other caregivers who are working with children with visual and multiple disabilities chapter one provides an overview of teaching strategies for this population and guidelines to be used in ensuring that the instruction is successful teaching a dark chapter explores how textbook narratives about the fascist nazi past in italy east germany and west germany followed relatively calm undisturbed paths of little change until isolated flashpoints catalyzed the educational infrastructure into periods of rapid transformation though these flashpoints varied among italy and the germanys they all roughly conformed to a chronological scheme and permanently changed how each dark past was represented historians have often neglected textbooks as sources in their engagement with the reconstruction of postfascist states and the development of postwar memory culture but as teaching a dark chapter demonstrates textbooks yield new insights and suggest a new chronology of the changes in postwar memory culture that other sources overlook employing a methodological and temporal rethinking of the narratives surrounding the development of european holocaust memory daniela r p weiner reveals how long before 1968 textbooks in these three countries served as important tools to influence public memory about nazi fascist atrocities as fascism had been spread through education then education must play a key role in undoing the damage thus to repair and shape postwar societies textbooks became an avenue to inculcate youths with desirable democratic and socialist values teaching a dark chapter weds the historical study of public memory with the educational study of textbooks to ask how and why the textbooks were created what they said and how they affected the society around them chapter 1 introduction chapter 2 teaching art craft or science chapter 3 the teacher as trainer chapter 4 learning through practice i chapter 5 learning through practice ii chapter 6 learning through practice iii chapter 7 towards a theory of teaching education policymaking is traditionally seen as a domestic political process the job of deciding where students will be educated what they will be taught who will teach them and how it will be paid for clearly rests with some mix of district state and national policymakers this book seeks to show how global trends have produced similar changes to very different educational systems in the united states and japan despite different historical development social norms and institutional structures the u s and japanese education systems have been restructured over the past dozen years not just incrementally but in ways that have transformed traditional power arrangements based on 124 interviews this book examines two restructuring episodes in u s education and two restructuring episodes in japanese education the four episodes reveal a similar politics of structural education reform that is driven by symbolic action and bureaucratic turf wars which has ultimately hindered educational improvement in both countries this title highlights aspects of progression and continuity in the teaching of english across the foundation and primary years and encourages readers to develop an understanding of key principles and the confidence to apply these appropriately to their classroom practice this book will explore how language culture are connected to teaching learning and examine the sociocultural sociopolitical contexts of language culture to understand how these contexts affect student learning achievement in the world library of educationalists series international experts compile career long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces
