Current Industrial Reports 1960-04 in the late 19th century bicycling and motoring offered new ways for a hardy minority to travel escaping from the tyranny of the train timetables these entrepreneurs were able to promote private mobility when the road technology and infrastructure were unequal to the task with a moribund network out of town poor roadside accommodation and few services how could road traction persist and ultimately thrive drawing on a wealth of primary sources including magazines newspapers and advice books on stable management this book explores the emergence and development of bicycling and automobility in britain with a focus on the racing driver cum entrepreneur sf edge 1868 1940 and his network craig horner considers the motivations prejudices and cultures of those who promoted and consumed road traction providing new insights into social class leisure sport and tourism in britain in addition he places early british bicycling and automobility in an international context providing fruitful comparisons with the movements in france germany and the united states the emergence of bicycling and automobility in britain is an excellent resource for scholars and students interested in mobility studies social and cultural history and the history of technology
