 examines the future effectiveness of regional institutions as well as key questions concerning the attempts to overcome ongoing serious problems of security governance and poor economic performance in the pacific what is obvious from this collection is that a new and stronger commitment to overcoming national problems is required through regional cooperation the volume is highly suited to courses on international political economy security and regional cooperation in the depths of the cold war and in the wake of britain s announcement of its intention to withdraw east of sues by the end of 1971 britain was faced with the stark reality of a marxist rebellion in the dhofar province of oman this rebellion whose explicit aim was to liberate the oil rich gulf region confronted the british with the challenge of securing a political order in oman conducive to protecting britain s remaining interests in the midst of its military withdrawal from the region state building and counter insurgency in oman offers a nuanced picture of britain s response to the challenges posed by this withdrawal through an examination the complex anglo omani relationship at this vital juncture in middle east and imperial history james worrall offers an examination of how officials in london and the gulf defined british interests in oman and the debates that raged throughout whitehall under the successive governments led by wilson and heath about how to best tackle the growing insurgency in oman the means by which this challenge was to be met including the extent of both overt and covert support for the sultan in the post suez era posed a number of challenges for decision makers in whitehall the military economic and diplomatic assistance given to the omani government to re establish sultanate control and crush the rebellion in dhofar is thus analysed within the context of a complex balancing act as british politicians and officials tried to reconcile their attempts to create effective and centralised omani administration and security bodies whilst maintaining the image of strategic withdrawal and the sovereign independence of oman drawing extensively from newly released archival records and interviews with former officials and high ranking officers this book provides a systematic re examination of the anglo omani relationship during the critical years of oman s transformation into a modern state it will therefore provide vital information and analysis for students and researchers of middle east history and politics the decline and end of empire and the policymaking processes at the heart of an imperial and military withdrawal this book provides a stimulating account of agricultural policy which goes beyond a narrow concern with the mechanisms and operation of the common agricultural policy cap and instead constructs a broader canvas developing an assessment of the relationship between national international and supranational institutions and actors in the agricultural sector among the theses covered by the book are the different national policy styles across europe in this sector the evolution of the cap safety and regulation the environment and technological developments in food production such as genetic engineering addressing the methodological and topical challenges facing remote demographers this book compares and contrasts the research methods and models and policy applications from remote regions in developed nations the work draws upon four examples the far north and desert regions of australia the northern provinces and territories of canada alaska and the arctic north of scandinavia over the past two centuries industrial societies have demanded ever increasing quantities of copper essential for light power and communication born with a copper spoon examines how the metal has been produced and distributed around the globe large scale production has affected ecologies states and companies while creating and even destroying local communities dependent on volatile commodity markets kenneth kaunda once remarked that zambians were born with a copper spoon in our mouths but few societies managed to profit from copper s abundance from copper cartels to the consequences of resource nationalism born with a copper spoon delivers a global perspective on one of the world s most important metals the book provides insight into the changing nature of muslim politics and the ideas of citizenship in independent india it studies the electoral mobilization of minority groups across north india particularly in uttar pradesh where muslims have been demographically dominant in various constituencies the volume discusses themes such as the making and unmaking of the congress heartland and the threat of revival of muslim communalism alongside issues of representation property language politics rehabilitation and citizenship politics of waqf personal law and hindu counter mobilization the author utilizes previously unused government and institutional files private elbridge durbrow served as the third united states ambassador to the republic of vietnam from 1957 to 1961 his relationships with vietnamese president ngo đình diệm and members of the military assistance advisory group in saigon helped to shape his tenure in office which ultimately concluded with his decision to end his support for the vietnamese leader as well as turn away from the american military representatives who had earned ngo đình diệm's trust this triangular relationship was mired in clashes of ego and personality that often interfered with the american decision making process durbrow and his embassy staff rather than work with the vietnamese leadership chose to focus on the negative and reported to washington only those items that reinforced this perspective they created an atmosphere of distrust and anxiety that neither the americans nor vietnamese could overcome in the 1960s and helped to create the conditions for greater united states involvement in southeast asia

Countering Economic Crime

2017-09-22

economic crime is a significant feature of the uk's economic landscape and yet despite the government's bold mission statements to hold those suspected of financial wrongdoing to account as part of their day of reckoning and serious about white collar crime agenda there is a sense that this is still not being done effectively this book examines the history of the creation of the uk's anti economic crime institutions and accompanying legislation providing a critique of their effectiveness the book analyses whether the recent regulatory regime is fit for purpose as well as being appropriate for the future in order to explore how the uk's economic crime strategies could be improved the book takes a comparative approach analysing policy and legislative responses to economic crime in the united states and australia in order to determine whether the uk could or should import similar structures or laws to improve the enforcement of uk economic crime
