in focusing exclusively on the book of exodus and its constant allusions in the new testament this new collection of studies seeks both to increase knowledge of the textual transmission of exodus in the first century and to encourage further methodological reflection on the use of scripture vs scriptural traditions as employed by ancient authors first exploring the role of exodus within judaism in the second temple period the contributors then reflect upon the rhetorical impact of exodus citations and allusions in the new testament by taking the reader from the four gospels through the pauline and disputed letters and hebrews and all the way to revelation itself this volume demonstrates both the unity and the diversity of appeals to exodus traditions in jewish and christian literature within the second temple period

A resourceful and thorough study of an important issue in New Testament and systematic theology, this book is one that takes human action and reception into full account. Where does God's revelation reside in the event or in the interpretation if history is about the creation of meaning? What does it mean to say that God reveals God's self in history? Dan Via addresses these and related issues in this original volume.
