In the aftermath of the financial crisis why has the reform process been incremental yet the conditions for more rapid and abrupt transformations appeared to be available is there anything specific about financial policy that prevents more radical reforms drawing from comparative politics and historical institutionalism in particular as well as international political economy this book answers these questions by examining the particular institutional frictions that characterise global financial governance and influence the activity of change agents and veto players involved in the process of global regulatory change the chapters in this volume collectively demonstrate that the process of change in financial rule making as well as in the institutions governing finance does not fit with the punctuated model of policy change the book also shows however that incremental changes can lead to fundamental shifts in the basic principles that inform this volume examines the criteria of excellence producing inequalities of gender in the daily working environment and evaluation of academics policymakers have increasingly placed emphasis on gender equality as part of a strategy for achieving research excellence and efforts to reduce gender bias have become mainstream this book suggests that this goal has remained elusive in practice due to continuing under representation of women across many academic and scientific fields questioning the old structures of male dominance still prevalent in national research policy the book explores the effects of institutional values and practices on the careers of academics particularly the academic identities of women and their career developments it focuses on case studies drawn from europe while also highlighting the rise of new forms of public management and a neoliberal framing of the value of academic work that have a much broader global reach using participatory research the book analyses contemporary forms of gendered excellence in an intersectional and international perspective it will be of interest to junior senior researchers teachers and scholars in sociology education gender studies history political science and science and technology studies
