Signalman 3 & 2 1983 educational technology adoption is more widespread than ever in the wake of covid 19 as corporations have commodified student engagement in makeshift packages marketed as gamification this book seeks to create a space for playful learning in higher education asserting the need for a pedagogy of care and engagement as well as collaboration with students to help us reimagine education outside of prescriptive educational technology virtual learning has turned the course management system into the classroom and business platforms for streaming video have become awkward substitutions for lecture and discussion gaming once heralded as a potential tool for rethinking our relationship with educational technology is now inextricably linked in our collective understanding to challenges of misogyny white supremacy and the circulation of misinformation the initial promise of games based learning seems to linger only as gamification a form of structuring that creates mechanisms and incentives but limits opportunity for play as higher education teeters on the brink of unprecedented crisis this book proclaims the urgent need to find a space for playful learning and to find new inspiration in the platforms and interventions of personal gaming and in turn restructure the corporatized surveilling classroom of a gamified world through an in depth analysis of the challenges and opportunities presented by pandemic pedagogy this book reveals the conditions that led to the widespread failure of adoption of games based learning and offers a model of hope for a future driven by new tools and platforms for personal experimental game making as intellectual inquiry

Postal clerk 3 & 2 1983 joe feldman shows us how we can use grading to help students become the leaders of their own learning and lift the veil on how to succeed this must have book will help teachers learn to implement improved equity focused grading for impact zaretta hammond author of culturally responsive teaching the brain crack open the grading conversation here at last and none too soon is a resource that delivers the research base tools and courage to tackle one of the most challenging and emotionally charged conversations in today s schools our inconsistent grading practices and the ways they can inadvertently perpetuate the achievement and opportunity gaps among our students with grading for equity joe feldman cuts to the core of the conversation revealing how grading practices that are accurate bias resistant and motivational will improve learning minimize grade inflation reduce failure rates and become a lever for creating stronger teacher student relationships and more caring classrooms essential reading for schoolwide and individual book study or for student advocates grading for equity provides a critical historical backdrop describing how our inherited system of grading was originally set up as a sorting mechanism to provide or deny opportunity control students and endorse a fixed mindset about students academic potential practices that are still in place a century later a summary of the research on motivation and equitable teaching and learning establishing a rock solid foundation and a true north orientation toward equitable grading practices specific grading practices that are more equitable along with teacher examples strategies to solve common hiccups and concerns and evidence of effectiveness reflection tools for facilitating individual or group engagement and understanding as joe writes grading practices are a mirror not just for students but for us as their teachers each one of us should start by asking what do my grading practices say about who i am and what i believe then let s make the choice to do things differently with grading for equity as a dog eared reference
