the tell el hesi site comprises a 25 acre walled city from the early bronze iii period it is located on the southeastern edge of the mediterranean coastal plain 26 km northeast of gaza in israel tell el hesi was the first palestinian site at which the principles of ceramic chronology and of stratigraphic excavation were applied and at which the relationship between pottery and stratigraphy was shown to be significant in 1890 w m flinders petrie excavated at hesi and produced a general picture of its occupational history in 1891 92 f j bliss excavated stratigraphically through each successive level of the mound and identified eleven occupational levels which he grouped into eight strata or cities in 1970 the joint archaeological expedition to tell el hesi sponsored by the american schools of oriental research and a consortium of educational institutions entered the site with the objectives of investigating in greater detail and with more refined methods the stratigraphic divisions identified by petrie and bliss this book appears as the second volume in the joint expedition s series of final publications regarding their field experience and findings the presence of strata i and ii the modern military trenching and the muslim cemetery combined to force the joint expedition to an important archaeological decision both strata belong to the modern period and fall into the vaguely defined category of historical archaeology strata of this kind are frequently disregarded in the excavation and reporting of near eastern sites however the decision was made to excavate these strata with the same detail as the more ancient levels of the mound this decision launched a pioneering effort in the archaeology of the palestine area and necessitated the development of new excavation and recording techniques the aim of this report is to present in an organized form all the data on strata i and ii gathered by the expedition to analyze this data to offer cultural conclusions and to compare the results in a preliminary way with the data from other sites and with the published work of other anthropologists carbohydrate chemistry provides review coverage of all publications relevant to the chemistry of monosaccharides and oligosaccharides in a given year the amount of research in this field appearing in the organic chemical literature is increasing because of the enhanced importance of the subject especially in areas of medicinal chemistry and biology in no part of the field is this more apparent than in the synthesis of oligosaccharides required by scientists working in glycobiology glycomedicinal chemistry and its reliance on carbohydrate synthesis is now very well established for example by the preparation of specific carbohydrate based antigens especially cancer specific oligosaccharides and glycoconjugates coverage of topics such as nucleosides amino sugars alditols and cyclitols also covers much research of relevance to biological and medicinal chemistry each volume of the series brings together references to all published work in given areas of the subject and serves as a comprehensive database for the active research chemist specialist periodical reports provide systematic and detailed review coverage in major areas of chemical research compiled by teams of leading authorities in the relevant subject areas the series creates a unique service for the active research chemist with regular in depth accounts of progress in particular fields of chemistry subject coverage within different volumes of a given title is similar and publication is on an annual or biennial basis
