after an unequivocal experience of the inefficacy of the subsisting federal government you are called upon to deliberate on a new constitution for the united states of america the subject speaks its own importance comprehending in its consequences nothing less than the existence of the union the safety and welfare of the parts of which it is composed the fate of an empire in many respects the most interesting in the world it has been frequently remarked that it seems to have been reserved to the people of this country by their conduct and example to decide the important question whether societies of men are really capable or not of establishing good government from reflection and choice or whether they are forever destined to depend for their political constitutions on accident and force if there be any truth in the remark the crisis at which we are arrived may with propriety be regarded as the era in which that decision is to be made and a wrong election of the part we shall act may in this view deserve to be considered as the general misfortune of mankind this idea will add the inducements of philanthropy to those of patriotism to heighten the solicitude which all considerate and good men must feel for the event happy will it be if our choice should be directed by a judicious estimate of our true interests unperplexed and unbiased by considerations not connected with the public good but this is a thing more ardently to be wished than seriously to be expected the plan offered to our deliberations affects too many particular interests innovates upon too many local institutions not to involve in its discussion a variety of objects foreign to its merits and of views passions and prejudices little favorable to the discovery of truth among the most formidable of the obstacles which the new constitution will have to encounter may readily be distinguished the obvious interest of a certain class of men in every state to resist all changes which may hazard a diminution of the power emolument and consequence of the offices they hold under the state establishments and the perverted ambition of another class of men who will either hope to aggrandize themselves by the confusions of their country or will flatter themselves with fairer prospects of elevation from the subdivision of the empire into several partial confederacies than from its union under one government
