the discipline of public administration and public policy is experiencing a renaissance of research in which explicit attention is paid to political institutions this renewed interest in institutions is not simply an extension of the classical paradigm in the study of public administration which peaked in the 1920s and 1930s but offers a new orientation on political institutions while classical institutionalism is known for its focus on the formal structures of the executive branch of government the new institutionalism concentrates on the interaction between political institutions and the behavior of policy makers this interaction which until recently was largely neglected in public administration and public policy forms the basic theme of this volume to advance the study of political institutions two rather basic problems need to be addressed what are institutions and what are adequate ways to analyze them we briefly discuss both questions which determine the structure of this book the asia pacific is arguably the most important but also the most complex and contested region on the planet containing three of the world s largest economies and some of its most important strategic relationships the region s capacity of regional elites to promote continuing economic development whilst simultaneously maintaining peace and stability will be one of the defining challenges of the twenty first century international order intuitively we might expect regional institutions to play a major role in achieving this yet one of the most widely noted characteristics of the asia pacific region has been its relatively modest levels of institutional development thus far however things are changing as individual economies in the asia pacific become more deeply integrated there is a growing interest in developing and adding to the institutions that already exist institutions of the asia pacific examines how this region is developing and what role established organisations like apec and new bodies like asean plus three are playing in this process an expert in the field mark beeson introduces the contested nature of the very region itself should it be the asia pacific or east asia to which we pay most attention and expect to see most institutional development by placing these developments in historical context he reveals why the very definition of the region remains unsettled and why the political economic and strategic relations of this remarkably diverse region remain fraught and difficult to manage
