sam houston s army reached buffalo bayou on april 18 1836 and the ensuing battle of san jacinto called attention to the meandering stream as a link between the interior of sprawling texas and the sea early in texas history the waterway that would one day be known as the houston ship channel evoked dreams in the minds of the enterprising how these dreams became realities that surpassed all expectation is the subject of marilyn mcadams sibley s the port of houston a history it is the story of the growth of an unlikely inland port situated at a tent city that many texans thought would die young it proves as an early visitor to houston noted that future greatness depends not so much on location of port or town as on an enterprising population controversy between dreamers and promoters is a large part of the story was houston or harrisburg the head of navigation was the shallow stream valuable enough to the nation to warrant the costly deep water dredging was houston or galveston to command the trade where land and water meet as the issues were settled houston had spread out to overtake harrisburg deep water was achieved in 1914 and was celebrated by ceremonies in which the president of the united states played a part and galveston grew into a self contained island metropolis while houston became in the words of sibley the perennial boom town of twentieth century texas as the port of houston continued to grow into a multi billion dollar institution serving and served by the cotton wheat oil and space industries its full economic impact on the city of houston the state and the nation cannot be estimated in dollars and cents but a glance at the trade statistics in the appendix alone will give some idea of the world wide value of this thriving port the many interesting illustrations accompanying mrs sibley s story show in graphic terms the growth of a small town on a stream of a very inconvenient size not quite narrow enough to jump over a little too deep to wade through without taking off your shoes into an international complex through which almost 4 billion in cargo passed in its fiftieth anniversary year
