Extinction Countdown (Ancient Origins Series Book 2) 2018-06-13 it is nearly impossible to imagine Giza any different today with its desert backdrop and its majestic sentinel like pyramids that can't help but exude a sense of permanence Edfu's account compiled from a series of now lost books attributed to the Moon God Thoth allows us to reconstruct how the Giza plateau may have looked over 11,000 years ago Giza was built around a shallow lake fed directly from the Nile if the texts were believed this ecosystem is similar to what one might see today in equatorial Africa if we find a time machine and travel back to this distant era we would find a hot humid atmosphere alive with lush green vegetation this hypothesis is not mere speculation for it is known that the river used to flow closer to the plateau's edge in the past in addition evidence of a lake and dock dating back to Old Kingdom times has also been found beyond the plateau's western limits in the eyes of the Shining Ones this would represent the primordial sea of chaos from which the first land appeared at the beginning of time

Studies in Ancient History 1896 how consciousness appeared much earlier in evolutionary history than is commonly assumed and why all vertebrates and perhaps even some invertebrates are conscious how is consciousness created when did it first appear on earth and how did it evolve what constitutes consciousness and which animals can be said to be sentient in this book todd feinberg and jon mallatt draw on recent scientific findings to answer these questions and to tackle the most fundamental question about the nature of consciousness how does the material brain create subjective experience after assembling a list of the biological and neurobiological features that seem responsible for consciousness and considering the fossil record of evolution feinberg and mallatt argue that consciousness appeared much earlier in evolutionary history than is commonly assumed about 520 to 560 million years ago they explain the great cambrian explosion of animal diversity produced the first complex brains which were accompanied by the first appearance of consciousness simple reflexive behaviors evolved into a unified inner world of subjective experiences from this they deduce that all vertebrates are and have always been conscious not just humans and other mammals but also every fish reptile amphibian and bird considering invertebrates they find that arthropods including insects and probably crustaceans and cephalopods including the octopus meet many of the criteria for consciousness the obvious and conventional wisdom shattering implication is that consciousness evolved simultaneously but independently in the first vertebrates and possibly arthropods more than half a billion years ago combining evolutionary neurobiological and philosophical approaches allows feinberg and mallatt to offer an original solution to the hard problem of consciousness

Studies in Ancient History 2015-10-24 since 1830 millions of people have read the book of mormon and become convinced that joseph smith s account of its ancient origins is correct others however assume that the book must be a fraud the book of mormon describes peoples cultures history and lands largely unknown to the 19th century world but today we enjoy a relative wealth of information about those times and peoples providing a background against which the book of mormon s claims of ancient origin can be tested this volume brings together a collection of initial efforts to mount such tests although first published in 1982 these nine essays have not been outdated or refuted by subsequent studies the evidence and conclusions they put forward are just as persuasive today as when they were first published

Studies in Ancient History. 2nd Series, Comprising an Inquiry Into the Origin of Exogamy, by the Late John Ferguson McLennan, Edited by His Widow and Arthur Platt 1982-01-01 an exploration of new zealand s maori cosmology and how it relates to classic ancient symbolic traditions around the world shows how maori myths symbols cosmological concepts and words reflect symbolic elements found at göbekli tepe in turkey demonstrates parallels between the maori cosmological tradition and those of ancient egypt china india scotland and the dogon of mali in africa explores the pygmy tradition associated with maori cosmology which shares elements of the little people mythology of ireland including matching mound structures and common folk traditions it is generally accepted that the maori people arrived in new zealand quite recently sometime after 1200 ad however new evidence suggests that their culture is most likely centuries older with roots that can be traced back to the archaic göbekli tepe site in turkey built around 10 000 bc extending his global cosmology comparisons to new zealand laird scranton shows how the same cosmological concepts and linguistic roots that began at göbekli tepe are also evident in maori culture and language these are the same elements that underlie dogon ancient egyptian and ancient chinese cosmologies as well as the sakti cult of india a precursor to vedic buddhist and hindu traditions and the neolithic culture of orkney island in northern scotland while the cultural and linguistic roots of the maori are distinctly polynesian the author shows how the cosmology in new zealand was sheltered from outside influences and likely reflects ancient sources better than other polynesian cultures in addition to shared creation concepts he details a multitude of strikingly similar word pronunciations and meanings shared by maori language and the dogon and egyptian languages as well as likely connections to various biblical terms and traditions he discusses the maori use of standing stones to denote spiritual spaces and sanctuaries and how their esoteric mystery schools are housed in structures architecturally similar to those commonly found in ireland he discusses the symbolism of the seven mythic canoes of the maori and uncovers symbolic aspects of the elephant headed hindu god ganesha in maori cosmology the author also explores the outwardly similar pygmy traditions of ireland and new zealand characterized by matching fairy mound constructions and mythic references in both regions he reveals how the trail of a group of little people who vanished from orkney island in ancient times might be traced first to scotland ireland and england and then on to new zealand accompanied by signature elements of the global cosmology first seen at gobekli tepe

Book of Mormon Authorship 2015-10-26 what does economics have to do with christian origins why study such a connection first of all the new testament makes many direct references to economic issues but second the economy affects every other aspect of life family religion community work health and politics to understand what it was like to live in a society one must understand what the economy was doing the study of the economy includes not only the goods and services of a society but also human labor and its control for one it entails the size of the pie of goods how prosperous was first century galilee but the study of economy also takes account of the slice of the pie that each family obtained how fair was the economy to each family those involved in the quest for the historical jesus have discovered that the ancient economy is a major point of dispute among various interpreters was the early jesus movement a socioeconomic protest or was it primarily a religious reform these two approaches understand jesus in remarkably different ways this volume seeks to guide readers through some of the most controversial issues raised in the last twenty years on this important topic

Studies in Ancient History 2023-10-31 ancient religions are usually treated as collective and political phenomena and apart from a few towering figures the individual religious agent has fallen out of view addressing this gap the essays in this volume focus on the individual and individuality in ancient mediterranean religion even in antiquity individual religious action was not determined by traditional norms handed down through families and the larger social context but rather options were open and choices were made on the part of the individual this development is reflected in changes in individuation the parallel process of a gradual full integration into society and the development of self reflection and of a notion of individual identity these processes are analysed within the hellenistic and imperial periods down to christian dominated late antiquity in both pagan polytheistic as well as jewish monotheistic settings the volume focuses on individuation in everyday religious practices in phoenicia various greek cities and rome and as identified in institutional developments and philosophical reflections on the self as exemplified by the stoic seneca

The Individual in the Religions of the Ancient Mediterranean 2013-04-04 the book focusses on the origin and transformation of the priestly festival calendar since the epoch making work of julius wellhausen at the end of the 19th century the differences between the various ancient israelite festival calendars have often been explained in terms of a gradual evolution which shows an increasing historicisation denaturalisation and ritualisation the festivals were in wellhausen s view gradually detached from agricultural conditions and celebrated more and more at fixed points in the year this study tries to show that the changes in the priestly festival calendar reflect a conscious effort to adapt the ancient israelite festival calendar to the semi annual layout of the babylonian festival year the ramifications of the change only come to the fore after a careful study of the agricultural conditions of ancient israel and mesopotamia makes clear that passover and the festival of unleavened bread were originally celebrated in the second month of the year the first month of the year envisaged by the priestly festival calendar for the celebration of passover and the festival of unleavened bread in turn mirrors the date of one of the two semi annual babylonian new year festivals the two babylonian new year festivals were celebrated exactly six months apart at the vernal and autumnal equinoxes in order to adapt the ancient israelite festival calendar to the babylonian scheme with two new year festivals a year the date of passover and the festival of unleavened bread had to be moved up by one month the consequences for the origin of passover the festival of unleavened bread the festival of weeks and the festival of huts are charted and the relations between the various ancient israelite festival calendars are determined anew

House documents 1867 these two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the north china plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c they describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of north and central china author paul wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in shang china with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the americas mesopotamia egypt southeast asia the mediterranean and the yoruba territories the origins and character of the ancient chinese city seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient china the origins and character of the ancient chinese city examines the cosmological symbolism of the chinese city constructed as a world unto itself it suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmo magical role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the hellenistic world whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites the origins and character of the ancient chinese city has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer
