books which one does not as a rule look for in english literature or associate with scotch professors of mathematics the series seems to me to place mr bain on an eminence isolated and unique and i think that some of the prose in the introductions where he writes frankly in his own person ranks with the best of our time but no words that i can write can fittingly express the fascination which these books have for me an essence of the dusk by f w bain contains three stories a haunted beauty a total eclipse and a fatal kiss from the american author and long time resident of india who wrote stories which he claimed were translated from sanskrit that received enthusiastic praise from mr e v lucas the author of the life of charles lamb and the editor of the works of lamb lucas says mr bain s an essence of the dusk i find delightful partly for its own wistfulness and beauty but even more for the impetus it gave me to return to its six predecessors earn of which i have since read again in their true order beginning with a digit of the moon the last is i think perhaps the least of the series but its companions are its only rivals there is a tenderness a richness of color a warmth of passion and an elemental understanding of men and women in these books which one does not as a rule look for in english literature or associate with scotch professors of mathematics the series seems to me to place mr bain on an eminence isolated and unique and i think that some of the prose in the introductions where he writes frankly in his own person ranks with the best of our time but no words that i can write can fittingly express the fascination which these books have for me reproduction of the original a draught of the blue together with an essence of the dusk by f w bain there lived of old on the edge of the desert a rájá of the race of the sun and like that sun reflected at midday in the glassy depths of the mánasa lake he had an image of himself in the form of a son who exactly resembled him in every particular except age and he gave him the name of aja for he said he is not another but my very self that has conquered death and passed without birth straight over into another body moreover he will resemble his ancestor and the god after whom i have called him aja so as this son grew up his father s delight in him grew greater also for he was tall as a shála tree and very strong and yet like another god of love for his face was more beautiful than the face of any woman with large eyes like lapis lazuli and lips like laughter incarnate so that his father as often as he looked at him said to himself surely the creator has made a mistake and mixed up his male and female ingredients and made him half and half for if only he had had a twin sister it would have been difficult to tell with certainty which was which and then when aja was eighteen his father died and immediately his relations conspired against him led by his maternal uncle and they laid a plot and seized him at night and bound him when he was asleep for they dared not attack him when he was awake for fear of his courage and his prodigious strength and they deliberated over him as he lay bound what they should do with him and some of them were for putting him to death then and there but the prime minister who was in the plot persuaded them to let him live saying to himself in this way i shall make for myself a loophole of escape in case he should ever regain his throne the pines darkly purple towered against the sunset behind the hills the splendidtapestry glowed and flamed sending far messages of light to the grey east where lay thesea crooning itself to sleep bare boughs dripped rain upon the sodden earth where thedead leaves had so long been hidden by the snow the thousand sounds and scents ofspring at last had waked the world the man who stood near the edge of the cliff quite alone and carefully feeling theground before him with his cane had chosen to face the valley and dream of the glory that perchance trailed down in living light from some vast loom of god s his massive head washrown back as though he listened with a secret sense for music denied to those who see he took off his hat and there lived of old on the edge of the desert a rájá of the race of the sun and like that sun reflected at midday in the glassy depths of the mánasa lake he had an image of himself in the form of a son who exactly resembled him in every particular except age and he gave him the name of aja for he said he is not another but my very self that has conquered death and passed without birth straight over into another body moreover he will resemble his ancestor and the god after whom i have called him aja so as this son grew up his father s delight in him grew greater also for he was tall as a shála tree and very strong and yet like another god of love for his face was more beautiful than the face of any woman with large eyes like lapis lazuli and lips like laughter incarnate so that his father as often as he looked at him said to himself surely the creator has made a mistake and mixed up his male and female ingredients and made him half and half for if only he had had a twin sister it would have been difficult to tell with certainty which was which and then when aja was eighteen his father died and immediately his relations conspired against him led by his maternal uncle and they laid a plot and seized him at night and bound him when he was asleep for they dared not attack him when he was awake for fear of his courage and his prodigious strength and they deliberated over him as he lay bound what they should do with him and some of them were for putting him to death then and there but the prime minister who was in the plot persuaded them to let him live saying to himself in this way i shall make for myself a loophole of escape in case he should ever regain his throne the writers of american short stories the best short stories in the world surpass in nothing so much as in their handling of those filmy textures which clothe the vague shapes of the borderland between experience and illusion this is perhaps because our people who seem to live only in the most tangible things of material existence really live more in the spirit than any other their love of the supernatural is their common inheritance from no particular ancestry but is apparently an effect from psychological influences in the past widely separated in time and place notice this book is published by historical books limited publicdomain org uk as a public domain book if you have any inquiries requests or need any help you can just send an email to publications publicdomain org uk this book is found as a public domain and free book based on various online catalogs if you think there are any problems regard copyright issues please contact us immediately via dmca publicdomain org uk
