into the modern age by considering the historical dimension of cinema and literary aesthetics first of realism then naturalism and finally modernism he begins with the work of writer william dean howells and the advent of american cinema under the stewardship of thomas edison arguing that realism was complexly involved in progressive political and economic reform next analyses of theodore dreiser s novel sister carrie and the films of the edison company s star director edwin s porter detail the relationships of naturalism to the increasingly abstract presentation of the material commodity through mass marketing the study culminates with an examination of the parallels between ernest hemingway s in our time and the d w griffith film the birth of a nation these two modernist works corkin contends illustrate strategies of expression that attempt to move the material commodity away from its economic base and into a pristine apolitical realm these literary and cinematic works both reflect and participate in the economic political and social reorganization of american life from the top down the result corkin concludes is a world in which a conception of a human being is asserted as differing little from that of a machine a tree or an animal

Birth of Modern India 2014-06-06 this book uses the body to peel back the layers of time and taken for granted ideas about the two defining political forms of modernity the state and the subject of rights it traces under the lens of the body how the state and the subject mutually constituted each other all the way down by going all the way back to their original crafting in the seventeenth century it considers two revolutions the first scientific threw humanity out of the centre of the universe and transformed the very meanings of matter space and the body while the second legal and political re established humans as the centre point of the framework of modern rights the book analyses the fundamental rights to security liberty and property respectively as the initial knots where the state subject relation was first sealed it develops three arguments that the body served to naturalise security to individualise liberty and to privatise property covering a wide range of materials from early modern dutch painting to the canon of english political thought the anglo scottish legal struggles of naturalization and medical and religious practices it shows both how the body has operated as history s great naturaliser and how it can be mobilised instead as a critical tool that lays bare the deeply racialised and gendered constructions that made the state and the subject of rights the book returns to the origins of constructivist and constitutive theorising to reclaim their radical and critical potential
