Guided reading is a small group instructional context in which a teacher supports each reader's development of systems of strategic actions for processing new texts at increasingly challenging levels of difficulty. Key elements of guided reading sessions are made up of three parts: before reading, discussion, and independent reading. After reading, discussion, the main goal of guided reading is to teach students to use strategies for reading that enable successful independent reading for meaning. Guided reading is small group reading instruction designed to provide differentiated teaching that supports students in developing reading proficiency. The small group model allows students to be taught in a way that is intended to be more focused on their specific needs, accelerating their progress. Guided reading is a group method of teaching reading skills that can be used in place of, though usually in addition to, occasional 1:1 reading and discrete phonics instruction. Generally speaking, guided reading involves teaching groups of children according to their ability levels. Guided reading is differentiated instruction at its best; all children deserve access to instructional level texts through which they can be guided to read and are responsible for their own learning. Guided reading asks children to read. Guided reading gives teachers the opportunity to observe students as they read from texts at their instructional reading levels. This strategy guide describes ideas that support guided reading, including practical suggestions for implementation. Details the steps for teachers to follow in order to develop more effective guided reading and small group instruction for all students by identifying specific goals in the areas of accuracy, fluency, and comprehension. Guided reading is a powerful and efficient tool to target your reading instruction to meet the specific needs of your children, to get the most out of your guided reading time. You'll need to do some research and planning up front. Guided reading is an instructional approach that involves a teacher working with a small group of students who demonstrate similar reading behaviors and can all read similar levels of texts. The text is easy enough for students to read with your skillful support.
