the young guns and one of the five hot minds in economics by the yale economic review he serves on the national economic council in prague where his provocative writing has achieved bestseller status how has he done it by arguing a simple almost heretical proposition economics is ultimately about good and evil in the economics of good and evil sedlacek radically rethinks his field challenging our assumptions about the world economics is touted as a science a value free mathematical inquiry he writes but it s actually a cultural phenomenon a product of our civilization it began within philosophy adam smith himself not only wrote the wealth of nations but also the theory of moral sentiments and economics as sedlacek shows is woven out of history myth religion and ethics even the most sophisticated mathematical model sedlacek writes is de facto a story a parable our effort to rationally grasp the world around us economics not only describes the world but establishes normative standards identifying ideal conditions science he claims is a system of beliefs to which we are committed to grasp the beliefs underlying economics he breaks out of the field s confines with a tour de force exploration of economic thinking broadly defined over the millennia he ranges from the epic of gilgamesh and the old testament to the emergence of christianity from descartes and adam smith to the consumerism in fight club throughout he asks searching meta economic questions what is the meaning and the point of economics can we do ethically all that we can do technically does it pay to be good placing the wisdom of philosophers and poets over strict mathematical models of human behavior sedlacek s groundbreaking work promises to change the way we calculate economic value civics events sen s capabilities are the human person s freedoms or possibilities they relate these concepts to aristotelian concepts this suggests that these concepts can be combined sen s capabilities are cartwright s capacities in the human realm capabilities are real causes of events in economic life institutions allow us to deliberate on and guide our decisions about capabilities through the use of as nicholas eberstadt demonstrates in this meticulously researched volume there is a grim coherence to north korea s political economy and a ruthless logic undergirding it one that unreservedly subordinates economic welfare to augmentation of political power thus paradoxically even as official policies and practices consign the dprk economy to a perilous realm between crisis and catastrophe the country s leadership maintains unchallenged domestic control and has actually managed to increase its international influence through painstaking collection of hard to uncover data and careful analysis eberstadt provides a quantitative tableau of north korea s terrible failure in its economic race against south korea its stubborn adherence to policies all but guaranteed to stifle growth and undermine economic performance and the longstanding official effort to ignore or mitigate pressures for economic reform eberstadt is skeptical of optimistic accounts from south korea and elsewhere suggesting that the north korean leadership is interested in resolving the current nuclear impasse and getting on with the business of reform and development so long as pyongyang s rulers entertain the ambition of reunifying the korean peninsula on its own terms eberstadt argues economic reforms worthy of the name will be subversive of state authority and vigilantly resisted by pyongyang s rulers this authoritative volume has received widespread attention from asian specialists well as those concerned with nuclear proliferation and world peace and international relations professionals in general
