Providing for energy efficiency in homes and small buildings 1980 this open access book provides a comprehensive overview of the state of the art in research and applications of foundation models and is intended for readers familiar with basic natural language processing nlp concepts over the recent years a revolutionary new paradigm has been developed for training models for nlp these models are first pre trained on large collections of text documents to acquire general syntactic knowledge and semantic information then they are fine tuned for specific tasks which they can often solve with superhuman accuracy when the models are large enough they can be instructed by prompts to solve new tasks without any fine tuning moreover they can be applied to a wide range of different media and problem domains ranging from image and video processing to robot control learning because they provide a blueprint for solving many tasks in artificial intelligence they have been called foundation models after a brief introduction to basic nlp models the main pre trained language models bert gpt and sequence to sequence transformer are described as well as the concepts of self attention and context sensitive embedding then different approaches to improving these models are discussed such as expanding the pre training criteria increasing the length of input texts or including extra knowledge an overview of the best performing models for about twenty application areas is then presented e g question answering translation story generation dialog systems generating images from text etc for each application area the strengths and weaknesses of current models are discussed and an outlook on further developments is given in addition links are provided to freely available program code a concluding chapter summarizes the economic opportunities mitigation of risks and potential developments of ai

Introduction to Live Sound Reinforcement 2014-04 first published in 2001 this volume demonstrates how computer based learning has the potential to provide a highly motivating learning experience that it also has the potential to achieve exactly the opposite and that the difference between these two extremes is the quality of the learning design the challenge for the learning designer isn t a simple one you are being asked to prepare interactive learning for someone you can t see and with whom the only interaction you are likely to have is via limited written communication fortunately help is at hand in alan clarke s designing computer based learning materials dr clarke offers a definitive guide to each of the many elements involved in good design this book explores the principles of adult learning and relates to the potential features and impact of computer based learning this is not a how to book but rather one seeking to help you understand the different elements which go into computer based learning if you are commissioning material it will help you to understand the contractors constraints if you are designing materials yourself it will allow you to avoid many of the errors it is all too easy to make when developing them computer based learning materials are not all the same their range reflects the variety of learners that use them and purposes they are used for the different learning environments that are available to people the different subjects that they wish to learn and the level to which they wish to take them in the face of such a complex task involving so many factors and variables it is essential that the learning designer understands what is involved and uses a rigorous process for envisioning planning designing implementing and testing their solution this is a book about learning design and not about software production and as such it provides any aspiring designers with the fundamentals of producing the highly motivating learning experience which should be their objective
