this book claims that paradise lost contains all the traits of the great epics as well as the predominant characteristics of early modern novels and that every history of the novel should acknowledge milton s unintentional contribution to the development of the genre milton s satan is presented as a novelistic character par excellence preceding memorable literary characters of novelistic provenance like dostoyevsky s raskolnikov shelley s monster or kafka s beetle in addition this book proves that all the elements of modernity like capitalism science all pervasive doubt the absence of unquestionable ideals radical individualism and the insatiable desire for self realization and incessant advancement are inherent to both paradise lost and satan s character just like a fully developed novelistic character and unlike any epic character in history satan constantly surprises us by failing exceeding or simply contradicting our expectations as such the book demonstrates that satan shares more common points with the likes of tom jones moll flanders or lovelace than with the traditional epic heroes like achilles or aeneas proving that the novel as a genre owes an immense debt to milton s grand epic and that satan may be perceived as a precursor of the great novelistic characters the law governing the relationship between speech and core international crimes a key component in atrocity prevention is broken incitement to genocide has not been adequately defined the law on hate speech as persecution is split between the international criminal tribunal for rwanda ictr and the international criminal tribunal for the former yugoslavia icty instigation is confused with incitement and ordering s scope is too circumscribed at the same time each of these modalities does not function properly in relation to the others yielding a misshapen body of law riddled with gaps existing scholarship has suggested discrete fixes to individual parts but no work has stepped back and considered holistic solutions this book does to understand how the law became so fragmented it returns to its roots to explain how it was formulated from there it proposes a set of nostrums to deal with the individual deficiencies its analysis then culminates in a more comprehensive proposal a unified liability theory which would systematically link the core crimes of genocide crimes against humanity and war crimes with the four illicit speech modalities the latter would be placed in one statutory provision criminalizing the following types of speech 1 incitement speech seeking but not resulting in atrocity 2 speech abetting non catalytic speech synchronous with atrocity commission 3 instigation speech seeking and resulting in atrocity and 4 ordering instigation incitement within a superior subordinate relationship apart from its fragmentation this body of law lacks a proper name as incitement law or international hate speech law labels often used fail to capture its breadth or relationship to mass violence so this book proposes a new and fitting appellation atrocity speech law
