First Draft Outline 1960 the real time nephanalysis rtne ph generates real time global analysis of cloud extent base height and type the rtne ph makes extensive use of satellite data that are measured in the 10 12 micron infrared ir window for thermal mapping of clouds and the earth's surface both day and night water vapor absorption effects are significant in such data especially for high viewing angles and tropical atmospheres where water vapor concentrations are generally high water vapor attenuates the emitted ground radiance reducing its magnitude and with it the apparent temperature of the surface being viewed currently the rtneph takes into account such attenuation losses using lookup tables that are functions of viewing geometry time of day type of background and the like however these corrections have limited value and leave room for significant improvement this report outlines and presents two new techniques that are expected to enhance the attenuation correction capabilities of the rtneph multivariate polynomial regression the weinreb technique and the correlated k method A Proposed Outline for the Study of Technical Assistance to Less Developed Countries 2016-07-16
