the transformation of the spanish wine industry over the last 20 years has been astonishing from a state of very considerable decay it has re invented itself with great vigour and style four decades ago such reputation as the wines of spain had rested on the declining quality of sherry and the occasional majestic rioja towering above the surrounding sea of mediocre oxidised table wines how things have changed exclaims julian jeffs in the introduction to his valuable the wines of spain the latest addition to faber and faber s series of wine books over the course of two years jeffs put in a great deal of intensive research in spain travelling the length and breadth of the country visiting growers and tasting their wines the effort has paid off in a wealth of engrossing detail the volume is organised into sections dealing with the main provinces or geographical regions aragon catalunya andalucia and so on then within those by the individual denominacion de origen do within each do the leading or most interesting bodegas are profiled allowing jeffs to build up a cumulative portrait of the regional characters especially evocative are the portions of the book dealing with the ancient and distinguished sherry houses in andalucia many of them of course founded in the 18th or 19th centuries by british or irish merchants the account of the great bodegas vega sicilia in castilla is emblematic of the progress of the entire spanish wine industry producing some of the world s finest wine up to the 1920s it fell into poor practices and the quality and reliability of the wine suffered badly under the modernising current owners the wine has regained its former reputation according to julian jeffs vega sicilia is on a wagnerian scale with all that master s subtlety and complexity robin davidson this text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title

there is no doubt about it Spain is the most exciting country in Europe when it comes to wine as Europe's second most mountainous country with exposure to seas and oceans on every side it is very diverse in terroir culture language and lifestyle. In northern Spain there are four main wine producing areas: Rioja, Galicia, Catalonia and Ribera del Duero. In Castilla y León each is unique and produces fine wines with its own denomination of origin guarantee. The heart of wine producing northern Spain is Rioja which has produced high quality wines for centuries. In the 1800s Rioja benefited from its alliance with Bordeaux conferring technological advantages unknown to other Spanish regions but quality doesn't stop in Rioja. Navarra is home to many of the most modern and cutting edge producers. Calatayud and Campo de Borja are home to some of the greatest Grenache vineyards in the world. Outside of the southern Rhône and Priorat and the surrounding area of Montsant in Catalonia produce some of the renowned Spanish wines. Sarah Jane Evans, the world's leading authority on the wines of Spain begins with a history of the region from phylloxera, the replanting of different and international varieties through the aftermath of the civil war and the effects on the wine industry to recovery and innovation in late 20th century, the promise of the 21st century and the rediscovery of indigenous varieties as well as a quick detour through the recent effects of the economic crisis. She then takes the sub-regions in turn starting with a profile before opening out into discussion of the key producers and their top wines. Evans' sure-footed guide to the wines of northern Spain is an essential companion for anyone interested in Spanish wine from students and professionals to interested wine tourists.

vino explores the history and identity of spanish wine production from the mid nineteenth century to today nineteenth century infestations of oidium fungus and phylloxera aphids devastated french and italian vineyards but didn't extend to the iberian peninsula at first giving spanish vintners the opportunity to increase their international sales once french and italian wineries rebounded however spanish wine producers had to up their game spain could not produce only table wine it needed a quality product to compete with the supposedly superior french wines after the spanish civil war the totalitarian franco regime turned its attention to spain's devastated agricultural sector but the country's wine industry did not rebound until well after world war ii in the postwar years it rebranded itself to compete in a more integrated european and international marketplace with the creation of a new wine identity as european integration continued spanish wine producers and the tourism industry worked together to promote the uniqueness of spain and the quality of its wines karl j trybus explores the development of spanish wine in the context of national and global events tracing how the wine industry has fared and ultimately prospered despite civil war regional concerns foreign problems and changing tastes
