The Usborne World of Shakespeare 2001 space matters it situates our history structures our daily lives and often determines what we can and cannot do borders are central to this reality tools and symbols of separation power and identity they bring people together as much as they set them apart this book explores how borders were understood made and encountered at the end of the middle ages and what they can tell us about the spatial fabric of society at the threshold of modernity it shows that pre modern borders were nothing like the fuzzy lines they are typically made out to be that border making was rarely a top down process and should instead be studied as an interactive endeavour and that space was shaped by communities far more than states in this period at its core borders and the politics of space in late medieval italy is the account of a frontier which would mark the italian peninsula for centuries that between the territories of the duchy of milan and those of the republic of venice but it is also a study of how rulers and subjects alike defined spaces they could call their own luca zenobi combines methods from several disciplines and applies them to a range of evidence from twenty different libraries and archives including theoretical treatises and pragmatic records written chronicles and cartographic visualisations private documents and official correspondence the cast of characters is equally eclectic featuring influential thinkers and pragmatic statesmen zealous factions and clumsy bureaucrats hopeless beggars and ambitious princes on the border their stories intersect and reveal their part in a shared history

Life in the Middle Ages Gr. 7-8 1998 what are the patterns of teaching and learning that make a classroom holistic how do children invent oral and written language how do they create the culture and curriculum of a classroom how does the spirit of community and collaboration develop among children and teachers what are the relationships between literacy schooling and socialization as they form among the children these are a few of the broad questions that kathy whitmore and caryl crowell answer in this absorbing portrait of caryl s third grade classroom the sunshine room over the span of a school year we watch the students in this bicultural classroom within a bilingual working class neighborhood work and develop together as a community of learners it is the story of how the sunshine room like many whole language classrooms invents itself and how in this process the children themselves are continually inventing oral and written language culture and curriculum in two separate collaborative voices the authors carry readers through several critical events in the life of the classroom the process through which the children and the teachers negotiate the curriculum the creation of a theme study about the middle ages and a vicarious experience of the middle east war through children s literature and discussions on an individual level the deep friendship between seaaira an english speaking child from the volunteer community and lolita a bilingual latina from the barrio is symbolic of the bicultural experience fostered in the sunshine
