postcolonialism the first one is the literature that grew out of colonial experience in latin america and is considered an answer to the over present literature of the oppressing european literary traditions the second one is characterized by a set of theoretical concerns and reading strategies rather than merely writing back a term introduced by bill ashcroft Gareth Griffiths and Helen Tiffin enchantments investigates magical realism as the most important trend in contemporary international fiction defines its characteristics and narrative techniques and proposes a new theory to explain its significance in the most comprehensive critical treatment of this literary mode to date wendy b faris discusses a rich array of examples from magical realist novels around the world including the work not only of latin american writers like gabriel garcia marquez but also of authors like salman rushdie gunter grass toni morrison and ben okri faris argues that by combining realistic representation with fantastic elements so that the marvelous seems to grow organically out of the ordinary magical realism destabilizes the dominant form of realism based on empirical definitions of the

of reality gives it visionary power and thus constitutes what might be called a remystification of narrative in the west noting the radical narrative heterogeneity of magical realism the author compares its cultural role to that of traditional shamanic performance which joins the worlds of daily life and that of the spirits because of that capacity to bridge different worlds magical realism has served as an effective decolonizing agent providing the ground for marginal voices submerged traditions and emergent literatures to develop and create masterpieces at the same time this process is not limited to postcolonial situations but constitutes a global trend that replenishes realism from within in addition to describing what many consider to be the progressive cultural work of magical realism faris also confronts the recent accusation that magical realism and its study as a global phenomenon can be seen as a form of commodification and an imposition of cultural homogeneity and finally drawing on the narrative innovations and cultural scenarios that magical realism enacts she extends those principles toward issues of gender and the possibility of a female element within magical realism a dramatic fictional portrait of the us mexico border migration and its impact on people s lives through this network of nine personal stories carlos fuentes sets out to explain mexico the years with Laura Diaz is Carlos Fuentes' most important novel in several decades like his masterpiece The Death of Artemio Cruz the action begins in the state of Veracruz and moves to Mexico City tracing a migration during the revolution and its aftermath that was a feature of Mexico's demographic history and that is a significant element in Fuentes's fictional world now the principle figure is not Artemio Cruz who however makes a brief appearance but Fuentes's first major female protagonist the extraordinary Laura Diaz Carlos Fuentes's richly woven narrative tapestry filled with a multitude of dramatic scenes both witty amusing and heartbreaking shows us this wonderful creature as she grows into a politically committed artist who is also a wife and mother a lover of great men a complicated and alluring heroine whose brave honesty prevails despite her losing a son and grandson to the darkest forces of Mexico's repressive corrupt regimes in the end Laura Diaz herself dies after a life filled with tragedy and loss but she is a happy woman for she has borne witness to and helped to affect the course of history and has vindicated the aims and intentions of the highest art The Archetypes of Carlos Fuentes 1980 ordinary enchantments investigates magical realism as the most important trend in contemporary international fiction defines its characteristics and narrative techniques and proposes a new theory to explain its significance in the most comprehensive critical treatment of this literary mode to date Wendy B. Faris discusses a rich array of examples from magical realist novels around the world including the work not only of Latin American writers like Gabriel García Márquez but also of authors like Salman Rushdie, Günter Grass, Toni Morrison and Ben Okri. Faris argues that by combining realistic representation with fantastic elements so that the marvelous seems to grow organically out of the ordinary magical realism destabilizes the dominant form of realism based on empirical definitions of reality gives it visionary power and thus constitutes what might be called a remystification of narrative in the West. Noting the radical narrative heterogeneity of magical realism the author compares its cultural role to that of traditional shamanic performance which joins the worlds of daily life and that of the spirits because of that capacity to bridge different worlds magical realism has served as an effective decolonizing agent providing the ground for marginal voices, submerged traditions and emergent literatures to develop and create masterpieces at the same time this process is not limited to postcolonial situations but constitutes a global trend that replenishes realism from within in addition to describing what many consider to be the progressive cultural work of magical realism Faris also confronts the recent accusation that magical realism and its study as a global phenomenon can be seen as a form of commodification and an imposition of cultural homogeneity and finally drawing on the narrative innovations and cultural scenarios that magical realism enacts she extends those principles toward issues of gender and the possibility of a female element within magical realism.
