Partition Stories 2009 through an investigation of the violence that marked the partition of british india in 1947 this book analyses questions of history and memory the nationalisation of populations and their pasts and the ways in which violent events are remembered or forgotten in order to ensure the unity of the collective subject community or nation stressing the continuous entanglement of event and interpretation the author emphasises both the enormity of the violence of 1947 and its shifting meanings and contours the book provides a sustained critique of the procedures of history writing and nationalist myth making on the question of violence and examines how local forms of sociality are constituted and reconstituted by the experience and representation of violent events it concludes with a comment on the different kinds of political community that may still be imagined even in the wake of partition and events like it

Partition and Genocide 2002 changing homelands offers a startling new perspective on what was and was not politically possible in late colonial india in this highly readable account of the partition in the punjab neeti nair rejects the idea that essential differences between the hindu and muslim communities made political settlement impossible far from being an inevitable solution the idea of partition was a very late stunning surprise to the majority of hindus in the region in tracing the political and social history of the punjab from the early years of the twentieth century nair overturns the entrenched view that muslims were responsible for the partition of india some powerful punjabi hindus also preferred partition and contributed to its adoption almost no one however foresaw the deaths and devastation that would follow in its wake though much has been written on the politics of the muslim and sikh communities in the punjab nair is the first historian to focus on the hindu minority both before and long after the divide of 1947 she engages with politics in post partition india by drawing from oral histories that reveal the complex relationship between memory and history a relationship that continues to inform politics between india and pakistan

Remembering Partition 2001 the partition of india in 1947 was a seminal event of the twentieth century much has been written about the punjab and the creation of west pakistan by contrast little is known about the partition of bengal this remarkable book by an acknowledged expert on the subject assesses the social economic and political consequences of partition using compelling sources the book which was originally published in 2007 shows how and why the borders were redrawn how the creation of new nation states led to unprecedented upheavals massive shifts in population and wholly unexpected transformations of the political landscape in both bengal and india the book also reveals how the spoils of partition which the congress in bengal had expected from the new boundaries were squandered over the twenty years which followed this is an intriguing and challenging work whose findings change our understanding and its consequences for the history of the subcontinent

Politics of Communalism and Secularism 1993 for b a pass and hons students of history based on ugc model curriculum and also modified curriculum of several universities

Interrogating Communalism 2018-10-26 the fragmentation of bengal and assam in 1947 was a crucial moment in india s socio political history as a nation state both the british indian provinces were divided as much through the actions of the muslim league as by those of congress and the british colonial power attributing partition largely to hindu communalists is therefore historically inaccurate and factually misleading the partition of bengal and assam provides a review of constitutional and party politics as well as of popular attitudes and perceptions the primary aim of this book is to unravel the intricate socio economic and political processes that led up to partition as hindus and muslims competed ferociously for the new power and privileges to be conferred on them with independence as shown in the book well before they divorced at a political level hindus and muslims had been cleaved apart by their socio economic differences partition was probably inevitable

Film, Media and Representation in Postcolonial South Asia 2021-07-28 sexual violence has been a regular feature of communal conflict in india since independence in 1947 the partition riots which saw the brutal victimization of thousands of hindu muslim and sikh women have so far dominated academic discussions of communal violence this book examines the specific conditions motivating sexual crimes against women based on three of the deadliest riots that occurred in ahmedabad city gujarat in 1969 1985 and 2002 using an in depth grassroots level analysis megha kumar moves away from the predominant academic view that sees hindu nationalist ideology as responsible for encouraging attacks on women instead gendered communal violence is shown to be governed by the interaction of an elite ideology and the unique economic social and political dynamics at work in each instance of conflict using government reports hindu nationalist publications and civil society commentaries as well as interviews with activists politicians and riot survivors the book offers new insights into the factors and ideologies involved in communal violence as well as the conditions that work to prevent sexual violence in certain riot contexts the politics of sexual violence in india will be valuable for academic researchers human rights organizations ngos working with survivors of sexual violence and for those involved with community development and urban grassroots activism

Routledge Handbook of the History of Colonialism in South Asia 2021-09-01 unsettling partitions reinterprets the silences found in women s accounts of sectarian violence that accompanied partition as a sign of their inability to find a language to articulate their experience without invoking metaphors of purity and pollution

NCERT History Class 12 2023-11-30 taking as its premise the belief that communalism is not a resurgence of tradition but is instead an inherently modern phenomenon as well as a product of the fundamental agencies and ideas of modernity and that globalization is neither a unique nor unprecedented process this book addresses the question of whether globalization has amplified or muted processes of communalism it does so through exploring the concurrent histories of communalism and globalization in four south asian contexts india pakistan bangladesh and sri lanka as well as in various diasporic locations from the nineteenth century to the present including contributions by some of the most notable scholars working on communalism in south asia and its diaspora as well as by some challenging new voices the book encompasses both different disciplinary and theoretical perspectives it looks at a range of methodologies in an effort to stimulate new debates on the relationship between communalism and globalization and is a useful contribution to studies on south asia and asian history

S. Chand's Simplified Course in Modern Indian History 2004-08-02 the partition of the indian subcontinent the collapse of the soviet union and yugoslavia the reunification of germany the continuing feud between two koreas the irish peace process the case of israel palestine and the lingering division of cyprus have together given rise to a huge body of literature however studies of partitions have usually focused on individual cases this innovative volume uses comparative analysis to fill the gap in partition studies and examines cross cutting issues such as violence state formation union and regional unification geopolitics transition The Partition of Bengal and Assam, 1932-1947 2016-06-16 this book examines instances of transformative dissent turning points or shifts in popular mobilisation patterns in contemporary india while adopting a historical approach and analysing past events exploring the different continuities and discontinuities in mobilising patterns and dissident agency in india the authors present a heterogeneous insurrectional pattern that pivoted around issues of caste class religion land reform labour taxation and territorial control with anti colonialism movements becoming prominent in the first half of the twentieth century the authors move beyond this to explore more recent templates of mobilisation which surfaced towards the end of the twentieth century during india s liberalisation period with growing marketisation and technological advancement unprecedented changes in social relations growing economic opportunities and cultural transfusion taking place the country became a new india one which aspired to be a global player in the wider technological public sphere tracing the historical trajectories of social movements in india this book examines recent trends in digitised dissidence and explores new frontiers of protests providing fresh insights for those researching the history of social movements south asian and indian history and postcolonial studies

Communalism and Sexual Violence in India 2006-01-01 the author deliberates on why this event should be highlighted what we have learned what we have lost and what we have gained the book sheds light on the real episodes of the history of partition and the history of its victims it explores how victims of the partition came out of the pain and started their lives from scratch after losing everything including their loved ones the book offers information about the partition of different parts of india from various perspectives it also discusses the reasons why communities once together became enemies the book emphasizes that this event is the most significant lesson to learn about humanity in the future

Unsettling Partition 2010-12-22 moving beyond purely theoretical considerations he assesses india s political future the possible obstacles to the development of communalism and the forces that exist on the left which might be brought into alliance to halt the march of chauvinism

Communalism and Globalization in South Asia and its Diaspora 2004-08-02 echos of the partition of india still affect life in subcontinent each time india and pakistan face each other at cricket or when their leaders talk of unfinished business this work suggests how the tangled skein of partition might be unravelled examining the power of national monuments and literary reactions to partition

The Theme of the Partition 1997 a wide ranging survey of the indian sub continent modern south asia gives an enthralling account of south asian history after sketching the pre modern history of the subcontinent the book concentrates on the last three centuries from c 1700 to the present jointly written by two leading indian and pakistani historians modern south asia offers a rare depth of understanding of the social economic and political realities of this region this comprehensive study includes detailed discussions of the structure and ideology of the british raj the meaning of subaltern resistance the refashioning of social relations along lines of caste class community and gender and the state and economy society and politics of post colonial south asia the new edition includes a rewritten accessible introduction and a chapter by chapter revision to take into account recent research the second edition will also bring the book completely up to date with a chapter on the period from 1991 to 2002 and adiscussion of the last millennium in sub continental history

The Furies of Indian Communalism 2001 violent belongings examines transnational south asian culture from 1947 onwards in order to offer a new historical account of how gender and ethnicity came to determine who belonged and how in the postcolonial indian nation

The Partitions of Memory 2018-05-03 this book argues that the changing character of muslim community and their living space in delhi is a product of historical processes the discourse of homeland and the realities of partition established the notion of muslim dominated areas as exclusionary and contested zones these localities turned out to be those pockets where the dominant ideas of nation had to be engineered materialized and practiced the book makes an attempt to revisit these complexities by investigating community space relationship in colonial and postcolonial delhi it raises two fundamental questions how did community and space relation come to be defined on religious lines in what ways were muslim dominated areas perceived as contested zones invoking the ideas of homeland as a useful vantage point to enter into the wider discourse around the conceptualization of space the book suggests that the relation between muslim communities and their living spaces has evolved out of a long process of politicization and communalization of space in delhi

Making Peace, Making Riots 2006 this book analyses how independent filmmakers from bangladesh have represented national identity in their films the focus of this book is on independent and art house filmmakers and how cinema plays a vital role in constructing national and cultural identity the authors examine post 2000 films which predominantly deal with issues of national identity and demonstrate how they tackle questions of national identity bangladesh is seemingly a homogenous country consisting 98 of bengali and 90 of muslim this majority group has two dominant identities bengaliness the ethno linguistic identity and muslimness the religious identity bengaliness is perceived as secular modern whereas muslimness is perceived as traditional and conservative however bangladeshi independent and art house filmmakers portray the nationhood of the country with an enthusiasm and liveliness that exceeds these two categories in addition to these categories the authors add two more dimensions to the approach to discuss identity popular religion and transformation the study argues that these identity categories are represented in the films and that they both reproduce and challenge dominant discourses of nationalism providing a new addition to the discourse of contemporary national identity the book will be of interest to researchers studying international film and media studies independent cinema studies asian cinema and south asian culture politics and identity politics

Gandhi on Pluralism and Communalism 1997 this book is mainly based on primary sources like archival materials oral evidence newspapers and so on chapter 1 of the thesis analyses the gap between political leaders and the people they led with reference to views and activities surrounding the cabinet mission to india while the political leaders talked about the future of india the people suffered communal violence and hunger the people could not understand and even join in the discussions that were to determine their future chapter 2 concentrates on the urdu journalism around 1947 this is a comparative study of three urdu newspapers with different perspectives on the same issues chapter 3 describes the muslim refugees in delhi not only the refugees but the islamic culture was in danger at that time the purpose of the present study is to understand and explain the hardship of those people who could not celebrate their independence from bottom of their hearts this analysis may be of some help in understanding the status of the muslim minority in india in the present day

East and West 2004 the book presented here is the first work of western literary criticism to examine the hindi laghukathā a modern indian prose genre that has been published since the 1970s in hindi newspapers and magazines and is characterised by its concise form 500 words on average and socio political agenda the importance of the genre within the hindi literary scene lies in the fact that the laghukathā is based on indigenous genres which have been modernised whereas the hindi short story and the novel are western genres that have been appropriated and indianised a thorough investigation of around 280 primary texts accompanied by an evaluation of the relevant hindi criticism gives a comprehensive literary analysis of this genre and its historical development this allows in conclusion to delineate an ideal type of laghukathā suggesting a range of compulsory desirable and optional features english translations of almost 50 representative hindi texts complete the picture and thus provide an insight into this genre so far unknown to a western audience
