The British Fiscal-Military States, 1660-c.1783

2016-05-26

the concept of the fiscal military state popularised by john brewer in 1989 has become familiar even commonplace to many historians of eighteenth century england yet even at the time of its publication the book caused controversy and the essays in this volume demonstrate how recent work on fiscal structures military and naval contractors on parallel developments in scotland and ireland and on the wider political context has challenged the fundamentals of this model in increasingly sophisticated and nuanced ways beginning with a historiographical introduction that places the sinews of power and subsequent work on the fiscal military state within its wider contexts and a commentary by john brewer that responds to the questions raised by this work the chapters in this volume explore topics as varied as finance and revenue the interaction of the state with society the relations between the military and its contractors and even the utility of the concept of the fiscal military state it concludes with an afterword by professor stephen conway situating the essays in comparative contexts and highlighting potential avenues for future research taken as a whole this volume offers challenging and imaginative new perspectives on the fiscal military structures that underpinned the development of modern european states from the eighteenth century onwards

National Identity in 21st-Century Cuban Cinema

2018-08-10

national identity in 21st century cuban cinema tours early 21st century cuban cinema through four key figures the monster the child the historic icon and the recluse in order to offer a new perspective on the relationship between the revolution culture and national identity in contemporary cuba exploring films chosen to convey a recent diversification of subject matters genres and approaches it depicts a changing industrial landscape in which the national film institute icaic coexists with international co producers and small independent production companies by tracing the reappearance reconfiguration and recycling of national identity in recent fiction feature films the book demonstrates that the spectre of the national haunts cuban cinema in ways that reflect intensified transnational flows of people capital and culture moreover it shows that the creative manifestations of this spectre screen both hiding and revealing a persistent anxiety around cubanness even as national identity is transformed by connections to the outside world

Paroimia and Parrēsia in the Gospel of John

2022-02-07

the language of the gospel of john is known for its complexity on the basis of the modern standards of transparency and logic previous scholars have depicted this language as obscure confusing and mysterious thomas tops goes beyond these oversimplifications by providing an in depth historical study of john s characterisation of jesus language with the terms paroimia and parr e sia by providing original insights in these terms the author offers a new perspective on the functioning of johannine language as the johannine jesus teaches both through paroimia and parr e sia his language conceals and reveals at the same time his criticism is veiled and calls on its addressees to search for the hidden meanings of his words veiled speech allows the johannine jesus to criticise his opponents and openly reveal his messianic identity to those who cannot accept the truth in any other way

this book presents the results of the first systematic archaeological study of roman peasants it examines the spaces architecture diet agriculture market interactions and movement habitus of non elite rural dwellers in a region of southern tuscan y italy during the roman period volume 1 presents the excavation data from eight non elite rural sites including a farm a peasant house animal stall work huts a ceramics factory field drains and a site of uncertain function here framed as individual chapters complete with finds analysis volume 2 examines this data synthetically in thematic chapters addressing land use agriculture diet markets and movement the results suggest a different more sophisticated roman peasant than heretofore assumed the data suggests that roman peasants particularly in the first century bc ad built specialized sites distributed throughout the landscape to maximize use of diverse land parcels this has important implications for the interpretation of field survey data the estimate of rural demographics from that survey and assumptions about the long term changes to human settlement it also points to an important moment of agricultural intensification in this period a contention beginning to be supported by other studies the project also identified sophisticated systems of land use including crop rotation and an important investment in animal agriculture this work presents the first systematic data from roman italy for rural consumption tracking the fine wares made at a production site to local sites nearby this supports the largely theoretical problematizing of the so called consumer city model and suggests the potential importance of rural aggregate demand movement studies based on finds from the sites themselves describe a more
