it was a glad day in the olden time when the story teller came to cottage or hall at christmas or new year when the may pole stood on the village green or the chestnuts were roasting in the coals on all hallows eve come when he would he was always welcome and if when he was least expected he knocked at the door what joy there was many were the miles that the story teller had traveled and many were the places where he had been and many were the tales he had to tell of what he had seen and what he had heard in the wide world sometimes his voice was deep and sweet as the organ in church on sunday and sometimes it rang out clear as a bugle and sometimes as the tale went on he would take the harp which was ever by his side and touching it with skilful fingers would weave a gay little song or a tender strain of music into his story like a jeweled thread in a golden web all the children gathered around him sturdy gilbert and rosy jocelyn roguish giles and slender rosalind eager for a story mother and father drew near and in the background stood the servants smiling but silent oh everything was still as the house at midnight as the story teller began his magic words once upon a time perhaps the story brought with it laughter or perhaps a tear but life said the story teller is made up of smiles and tears and the little ones listening to him learned to rejoice with those whose joy was great and to mourn with the sorrowful and were the better and not the worse for it and so in due time grew into noble men and good women it is many and many a year since they lived and died but still knock knock knock the story teller comes with his harp and his story to every child s heart to day open the door and let him come in give him a seat by the fire and gather close about him and then you shall hear from the book

The Story of My Life may be the most extraordinary autobiography ever written. Its author was only 22 when it was published in 1903, but her life to that point had already been most uncommon. She had been rendered deaf, blind, and later mute by an illness at the age of 19 months, and only years later learned to read, speak, and understand others through the dedication of a teacher extraordinary in her own right. American author and activist Helen Adams Keller (1880–1968) became famous thanks to The Story of My Life, which was later adapted for stage and screen in various incarnations under the title The Miracle Worker. A reference to that special teacher, Annie Sullivan, here in her own words is Keller's firsthand experience of the dawning of enlightenment on the severely isolated child she was and her evolution into the educated and erudite young woman she became.
