hold up in today's world. Air Commodore Professor Dr Frans Ozinga is the chair of the War Studies Department of the Netherlands Defence Academy and the special chair in War Studies at the University of Leiden. Dr Tim Sweijds is the director of research at the Hague Centre for Strategic Studies and a research fellow at the Faculty of Military Sciences of the Netherlands Defence Academy in Breda. The European and American economies are closely interlinked as mutually important investment and trading partners. The growing intensity of economic interdependence has spurred the transatlantic coordination of rules and standards that can lead to the formation of non-tariff barriers to transatlantic commerce but despite impressive government to government efforts to eliminate market barriers the EU and the US have frequently clashed over each other's regulatory policies. The aim of this book is to explore the domestic sources of cooperation or conflict in transatlantic regulation. The book analyses the role of domestic factors through three theoretical lenses that are well established in the study of multilevel systems: the principal agent approach, the two level game metaphor and through a wider concept of institutionalism which emphasises the links between societal interests and regulatory ideas with institutional frameworks. The book states that domestic factors embody more obstacles than opportunities for horizontal coordination. It is argued that transatlantic relations will likely undergo a double movement, being simultaneously shifted upwards and outwards. Systematic reviews and meta analysis pocket guide to social work research methods
