parties in the nordic region somewhat surprisingly given the image of a consensual egalitarian and progressive region of europe the nordic countries have been fertile ground for the radical right not only have radical right parties persisted for many decades but they are currently much stronger in this region than in most other european countries today in this book the contributors analyse the electoral ideological and organisational aspects of the radical right in the nordic region the progress party in norway fremskrittspartiet frp the sweden democrats sverigedemokraterna sd danish people s party dansk folkeparti df and the finns party perussuomalaiset ps it also explores how mainstream parties and the media have reacted to the rise of the radical right whether the radical right is integrated into mainstream politics the extent to which they challenge the dominant ideological paradigm of nordic politics and whether they mobilise and organise differently to other parties understanding the nordic radical right is crucial to comprehending the transformation of nordic politics but also changes in european politics more generally this book will be of interest to commission on human and peoples rights has not received the attention that should have been paid to its important contributions towards the promotion and protection of human rights in africa the aim of this publication is to provide not only the basic documents but also the less well known material related to the jurisprudence emanating from the consideration of communications this volume therefore includes amongst other material the twelve activity reports adopted by the commission resolutions and final communiqués from the sessions this is the first attempt to reproduce comprehensively the many documents of the commission adopted since its inception in 1987 it will be an essential reference for academics students and practitioners the publication is produced in collaboration with the african society for international and comparative law the centre for human rights at the university of pretoria and interrights in london summary this book brings together case study examples in the fields of sustainability sustainable development and education for sustainable development report of twenty three studies looking at the uk the netherlands iceland canada new zealand united states australia alaska and chile when faculty unexpectedly encounter students religious ideologies in the classroom they may respond with apprehension frustration dread or concern instructors may view this exchange as a confrontation that threatens the very heart of empirical study and worry that this will lead to a dead end in the learning process the purpose of this book is to explore what happens and what can happen in the higher education and even secondary school classroom when course content meets or collides with students religious beliefs it also considers the impact on learning in an environment where students may feel threatened angry misunderstood or in which they feel their convictions are being discredited this is a resource that offers ways of conceptualizing engaging with and responding to student beliefs this book is divided into three sections student views on the role of religion in the classroom general guidelines for responding to or actively engaging religious beliefs in courses such as legal and diversity considerations and specific examples from a number of disciplines including the sciences social sciences humanities and professional education professors from public private and religious institutions share their findings and insights the resounding lessons of this book are the importance of creating a learning space in which students can express their beliefs dissonance and emotions constructively without fear of retribution and of establishing ground rules of respectful discussion for this process to be valuable and productive this is an inspirational and practical guide for faculty navigating the controversial sensitive yet illuminating lessons that can be learned when religion takes a seat in the classroom
