In this darkly humorous thriller, reality television becomes too real when a killer with a message preys on the contestants of America's number one TV show. A high-stakes game is played on the set of a live broadcast reality television show where guests are trapped for six months in a haunted mansion thousands of miles away. A psychopath is executed by lethal injection in California and dies with a secret that could save many lives. Only a comical detective who fears nothing except his teenage daughters can hope to understand what links these two seemingly unrelated crimes without ever losing his zest for the game or his sense of humor.

School effectiveness research, together with what is now described as the school improvement movement (Barber, 1996), has captured both the conservative and New Labour imaginations as a basis for educational planning and policy making in the UK. Internationally, school effectiveness enjoys an expanding and enthusiastic audience. This book provides a critique of this research genre, particularly in the light of the recent calls for teaching to go back to the basics. The editors argue that this school effectiveness research is simplistic in its analysis of educational problems, far from getting to the bottom of the problem of failing students and schools. They argue these movements are merely scratching at the surface of the problems and coming up with notions for superficial improvements. The pressure on schools to improve and to raise achievement continues to be a dominant issue in both school and government policies. School effectiveness and school improvement seeks to develop the debate further, providing academics and practitioners alike with a summary and discussion of research on school effectiveness and school improvement up to the present. New perspectives on these fields, developed from other traditions of thinking and research, a consideration of the role of organization theory, an integrated view of these current perspectives, and clear practical implications for policy and practice.
