star studies in theology and religion 6 theology between church university and society includes contributions to the international noster conference theology between church university and society held in the netherlands in june 2000 in the current academic world theologians are often suspected of confessionalism bias and narrow mindedness they in turn try to regain respect by producing specialist historical empirical and analytical studies that are in line with other academic research this retreat into neutrality renders them suspect in the eyes of their religious communities some churches react by reformulating their appointment policies and become more strict in order to secure the full loyalty of the theological staff of their institutions therefore many theologians feel a conflict between loyalty to their tradition and loyalty to the academic world student populations have also changed considerably during the last few decades quite a number of students have a lively interest in religion but no religious affiliation at all university teachers have to adapt to these new audiences and faculties need to reorient themselves to reestablish their goals this volume is concerned with these three challenges academic religious and societal in all of the contributions the tension between descriptive research and normative theses or the relation between theology and society at large is discussed not only are there descriptions of the structures of theological institutions in the netherlands the usa and south africa but also of the relations between churches and theological institutions and vatican policy regarding theological faculties for centuries the accommodation between japan and christianity has been an uneasy one compared with others of its asian neighbors the churches in japan have never counted more than a small minority of believers more or less resigned to patterns of ritual and belief transplanted from the west but there is another side to the story one little known and rarely told the rise of indigenous movements aimed at a christianity that is at once made in japan and faithful to the scriptures and apostolic tradition christianity made in japan draws on extensive field research to give an intriguing and sympathetic look behind the scenes and into the lives of the leaders and followers of several indigenous movements in japan focusing on the native response rather than western missionary efforts and intentions it presents varieties of new interpretations of the christian tradition it gives voice to the unheard perceptions and views of many japanese christians while raising questions vital to the self understanding of christianity as a truly world religion this ground breaking study makes a largely unknown religious world accessible to outsiders for the first time students and scholars alike will find it a valuable addition to the literature on japanese religions and society and on the development of christianity outside the west by offering an alternative approach to the study and understanding of christianity as a world religion and the complicated process of cross cultural diffusion it represents a landmark that will define future research in the field that the recent turn in european constitutional review has effectively brought about a revolution in european law has been observed before at issue are two major developments in european judicial review on the one hand the european court of human rights has been collapsing traditional boundaries between constitutional law and private law with a series of decisions that effectively recognized the horizontal effect of convention rights in the private sphere on the other hand the european court of justice has also given horizontal effect to fundamental liberties embodied in the treaty on the function of the european union in a number of recent cases in a way that puts established boundaries between member state and union competences in question this book takes issue with these developments by bringing to the fore a key issue that the horizontality effect debate has hitherto largely overlooked namely the question of sovereignty it shows with detailed references to especially the american debate on state action and the german debate on drittwirkung that horizontal effect cannot be understood consistently without coming to grips with the conceptions of state sovereignty that inform different approaches to horizontal effect at the sixtieth anniversary of sacrosanctum concilium the situation on the ground for catholics is more chaotic than ever a liturgical reform meant to usher in a new age of full churches and ecumenical rapprochement delivered neither instead churches are emptying and closing at an unprecedented rate meanwhile an ancient old rite grown to maturity in the middle ages encrusted with baroque pearls and officially pronounced dead in the 1960s has made an astonishing return around the world tolerated by paul vi permitted worldwide by john paul ii declared free for everyone by benedict xvi and most recently put under ban once more by francis the tridentine mass remains a powerful and polarizing reality in the church of rome an ark of holiness and beauty to the priests and faithful who love it a belligerent backwardism to those who seek its abolition in this state of spiritual civil war questions of authority and obedience are never far from anyone's mind bound by truth grapples with the momentous issues of authority obedience tradition and the common good part i papacy patrimony and piety addresses the teaching of vatican i on the pope's universal jurisdiction the limits of his authority in light of other authoritative principles such as liturgical tradition and local custom the properly catholic way to interpret and follow the magisterium and the virtue of intelligent god fearing and communally perfective obedience versus its vicious distortions willful rebelliousness on the one hand and a blind thoughtless self destructive submissiveness on the other part ii faithful resistance looks at historical examples of prelates who legitimately pushed back against papal overreach discusses how clergy should navigate unjust episcopal decrees on private masses concelebration the use of the rituale romanum etc shares advice and strategies for laity who seek to promote and defend tradition in their dioceses and draws inspiration from persecuted religious sisters whether their tormentors were soviet communists or apparatchiks of the postconciliar ecclesiastical bureaucracy peter kwasniewski is a sane and learned voice crying out from within a catholic church which in its earthly visible aspect seems to have lost its mind sebastian morello examines the difficult topics of authority and obedience with forthrightness and a willingness to engage even the most controversial debates a timely guide to how catholics might respond when truth and tradition are under attack by those who should be their foremost defenders eric sammons as with his earlier books so here kwasniewski emerges as an apostle of tradition and a paladin of the ancient roman rite a book to be treasured michael sirilla both summarizes the author's recent thought and serves as a guide and resource for beleaguered faithful theoretically challenging and eminently useful stuart chessman critiques the latest and historically worst abandonment of our grip on the cord that ties us through tradition to the word incarnate and indicates the paths along which health and sanity will be recovered john c rao offered with his usual mixture of scholarship and wit kwasniewski's analysis is primarily and accurately applied to the situation in the church but the principles he explores in this book also admit of far wider application charles a coulombe this thoroughly researched and cogently argued book could not have been published at a better time brian m mccall resist this exhortation animates a remarkable range of theological reflection on consumer culture in the united states and for many theologians the source and summit of christian cultural resistance is the eucharist in commodified communion antonio eduardo alonso calls into question this dominant mode of theological reflection on contemporary consumerism reducing the work of theology to resistance and centering christian hope in a eucharist that might better support it he argues undermines our ability to talk about the activity of god within a consumer culture by reframing the question in terms of god s activity in and in spite of consumer culture this book offers a lived theological account of consumer culture that recognizes not only its deceptions but also traces of truth in its broken promises and fallen hopes social protection capitalist production provides a thorough analysis of the genealogy and the functional logic of german capitalism over the last 130 years it addresses several puzzles of the existing literature in particular how economic coordination proved possible and remained stable in a big country without prominent traits of neo corporatism without long government participation of social democratic parties without centralized wage bargaining without active economic steering by the government under a monetarist regime and under an allegedly liberal namely ordoliberal economic policy the central claim of the book is that the functional equivalent was a conservative continental welfare state which provided labour and capital with the organizational resources and the infrastructure to establish and maintain long term economic coordination a better understanding of the german case which can be seen as prototypical for other continental political economies as well thus provides us also with a much better understanding of the different variants of coordinated market economies in northern continental and southern europe i e it provides us with a more profound comparative political economy framework this has important implications for contemporary debates on germany s role within international trade and especially on her role within europe and especially within the euro zone and its crisis much of the current debate so the book claims is based on an incomplete account of the functional logic of modell deutschland many concerned catholics today seeing the ways and teachings of jorge mario bergoglio pope francis are asking themselves can that man be a real catholic pope from the time of paul vi a small contingent of faithful catholics known as sede vacantists have expressed the gravest doubts that he and each of his successors in turn since then were real popes of the catholic church this minority view long dismissed by most now emerges into a wide public view as jorge bergoglio seems to go out of his way to puncture every expectation a catholic should have for a vicar of christ but this latest step in the decatholicization of the church is merely the fullest flowering yet seen of an erroneous direction taken during the second vatican council those looking to find detailed lists of all the abominable acts and teachings of jorge bergoglio or his immediate few predecessors or justly deserved ecclesiastical anathemas heaped upon them will doubtless be disappointed rather the severe theological implications of the sede vacante findings are explored and vindicated for the first time in a systematic and complete book form in this volume sixteen doctrinal categories are discussed and reconciled to the historical events in the church since vatican ii showing the essential role of the sede vacante findings in sustaining the churchs supernatural claims

Understanding the Transformation of Germany's CDU

the rapid spread of the liberal market order across the globe poses a host of new and complex questions for religious believers indeed for anyone concerned with the intersection of ethics and economics is the market economy particularly as it affects the poor fundamentally compatible with christian moral and social teaching or is it in substantial tension with that tradition in wealth poverty and human destiny editors doug bandow and david l schindler bring together some of today's leading economists theologians and social critics to consider whether the triumph of capitalism is a cause for celebration or concern michael novak richard john neuhaus max stackhouse and other defenders of democratic capitalism marshal a number of arguments in an attempt to show that among other things capitalism is more christian in its foundation and consequences than is conceded by its critics that as stackhouse and lawrence stratton write the roots of the modern corporation lie in the religious institutions of the west and that as novak contends globalization is the natural ecology of christianity the critics of liberal economics argue on the other hand that it is historically and theologically shortsighted to consider the global capitalist order and the liberalism that sustains it as the only available option any system which has as its implicit logic that stable and preserving relationships among people places and things do not matter and are of no worth in the words of wendell berry should be regarded with grave suspicion by religious believers and all men and women of goodwill bandow and schindler take up these arguments and many others in their responses which carefully consider the claims of the essayists and thus pave the way for a renewed dialogue on the moral status of capitalism a dialogue only now re-emerging from under the cold war rubble the contributors' fresh insightful examinations of the intersection between religion and economics should provoke a healthy debate about the intertwined issues of the market globalization human freedom the family technology and democracy
