the original getty museum housed in a replica of a roman villa on a site overlooking the pacific ocean is one of los angeles s most treasured landmarks closed for almost ten years while renovations were made to the building and the site itself was transformed into a center for the study of antiquities and conservation the getty villa is now set to open late in 2005 the getty villa is a lively history of the getty museum its renowned antiquities collections and its growth from a small museum in a ranch house in malibu to its first home in a building designed to replicate what we know of the villa dei papiri an ancient roman villa partially uncovered in herculaneum most engagingly this book records the ten year adventure in reconfiguring a beautiful but topographically challenging site into one that could continue to accommodate the splendid museum building and also provide for an outdoor theater laboratories for conservation work and research offices for staff and visiting scholars and an education program for adults and children this is a story of architectural imagination geographical challenges and legal hurdles all of which have resulted in a truly unique and beautiful site the story is an enlightening and rewarding one for anyone interested in architecture and in the difficulties posed by building on a grand scale in the twenty first century beautifully illustrated throughout the book includes 250 reproductions of works of art photographs of both the old and the new getty museum site plans and architectural elevations the idea that home is a special place a separate place a place where we can be our true selves is so obvious to us today that we barely pause to think about it but as judith flanders shows in this revealing book home is a relatively new concept when in 1900 dorothy assured the citizens of oz that there is no place like home she was expressing a view that was a culmination of 300 years of economic physical and emotional change in the making of home flanders traces the evolution of the house across northern europe and america from the sixteenth to the early twentieth century and paints a striking picture of how the homes we know today differ from homes through history the transformation of houses into homes she argues was not a private matter but an essential ingredient in the rise of capitalism and the birth of the industrial revolution without home the modern world as we know it would not exist and as flanders charts the development of ordinary household objects from cutlery chairs and curtains to fitted kitchens plumbing and windows she also peels back the myths that surround some of our most basic assumptions including our entire notion of what it is that makes a family as full of fascinating detail as her previous bestsellers the making of home is also a book teeming with original and provocative ideas
