this book gives a complex description and discussion of today's populist attacks against the European Union (EU) following the financial crisis of 2008 which opened the floodgates of dissatisfaction and the migration crisis which destabilized the traditional solidarity basis of the EU. The problem of Brexit is also explored. Each chapter presents one of the main elements of the crisis of the EU. These include West European populism, Central European right-wing populism in power and the exploitation of the EU's mistake during the migration crisis of the mid-2010s. These also include the discovery of Christian ideology against immigration and hidden anti-Semitic propaganda using a hysterical attack against the liberal billionaire philanthropist George Soros and Brexit. There is a detailed discussion of the failures of the EU to pacify the neighbourhood in the South and North, especially in Ukraine, and the rising hostile outside enemies of the EU including Russia and Turkey. Bad relationships with Trump's America, the uncertainty of NATO and the emergence of a new rival China that enters into the Central European edge of the EU. The author explores strategies for coping with and emerging from this existential crisis and ends with alternative plans and possibilities for the future of the Eurozone. This will be an invaluable resource for understanding the crisis of the EU, one of the central questions of contemporary international politics for undergraduate and graduate students and readers interested in the discussion surrounding an endangered European integration and difficult world politics.

why do organizations adopt information systems is it just because of financial reasons of concerns for efficiency or is it due to external pressures such as competitor pressure that an organization adopts an information system and how does the adoption take place is it a linear process or is the process one of conflicts does a specific person govern this process or do we have multiple parties involved what happens if these conflicts occur among those involved how does the organization move on and achieve a successful information system adoption by investigating two organizations one international academic journal and one south american manufacturing company this thesis aims to investigate the whys and hows of information system adoption and aims to contribute to the discourse on information system adoptions in small organizations an often underrepresented segment in information system adoption literature by adopting different theoretical lenses throughout the five research papers included this body of work suggests that even when seemingly simple information system adoptions can become rather complex the cases reveal that the role of information systems and issues related to information system adoptions are often not well thought out in the early days of the organization the actors understandings of adoption and consequences mature and the information systems become more intertwined common use of stakeholder theory introduces general stakeholders and their interaction with the focal organization the cases reveal that the adoption process involves multiple actors even within what would initially appear as a stakeholder and that those actors can be in conflict with each other these conflicts often lead to negotiations and the cases reveal that these negotiations are opportunities of learning the actors engage with the information system and with each other gaining new knowledge about the issues at hand the dissertation argues that there are various social worlds in information system adoptions and various factors ranging from organizational structure to social norms that often affect why and how the organization undergoes an adoption process the multiple power relations and divergent interests of stakeholders in these adoption processes and how information systems affect other parts of the organization reinforce the need for a well thought out flexible and reflexive approach to information system adoptions

this book is the outcome of a research symposium sponsored by the association for educational communications and technology aect consisting of twenty four chapters including an introduction and conclusion it argues that informational content should not be the main element of education and that to provide more for learners it is necessary to go beyond content and address other skills and capabilities it also discusses the false premise that learning is complete when the information is known not when learners seek more their own directions answers and ideas the authors assert that the ability to synthesize solve problems and generate ideas is not based on specific content although education often focuses solely on teaching content further they state that content can be separated from the learning process and that instructional design and educational technology must be about the skills habits and beliefs to be learned
