place in south african history has tended to be overshadowed by events elsewhere in the region this book attempts to redress the balance by recording his remarkable story in 1870 at the beginning of the kimberley diamond mining boom that was to transform southern africa luka jantjie was the first independent african ruler to lose his land to the new colonialists who promptly annexed the diamond fields his outspoken stand against the hypocrisy of colonial justice earned him the epithet a wild fellow who hates the english as the son of an early christian convert luka was brought up to respect peace and non violence his boycott of rural trading stores in the early 1890s was perhaps the earliest use of non violent resistance in colonial south africa his steady refusal to bow to colonial demands of subservience intensified the enmity of local colonists determined to teach him a lesson as many of his people succumbed to colonial pressures luka was twice forced to take up arms to defend himself and his people from colonial attacks his life ended in a dramatic and heroic last stand in the ancestral sanctuary of the langeberg mountain range its tragic consequences stretched far into the next century examines the beginning of the independence movement in africa and the results once freedom was achieved this sensitive and compelling biography of patrick van rensburg does justice to patrick van rensburg was to become a rebel with several causes in his case they were initially the fight against apartheid and later a unique contribution to education which as he would tell his audience when he accepted the prestigious right livelihood award as i saw it then was a necessary tool of development exiled from south africa because of his involvement in the boycott campaign in london that gave birth to the anti apartheid movement van rensburg went to serowe in botswana then bechuanaland where he founded co operatives provided vocational training and was one of the earliest people to espouse the discipline of development studies perhaps his best known legacies were swaneng hill school in which he involved his pupils in building their school running it providing their own food and making their own equipment and furniture and brigades to provide an educational home for primary school dropouts through a curriculum that combined theory and practice mental and manual labour this sensitive and compelling biography does justice to a giant of a man controversial throughout his life but undeniably a hero tells the story of two popular revolutions in ghana both of them africa is a vibrant but all too often misunderstood continent outsiders know africa from the evening news as a collection of countries plagued by war famine disease and poverty few people are aware of its rich past dynamic present and promising future africans however look back into a yesteryear crowded with empires and kingdoms and into a tomorrow filled with economic and political potential the difference between these two ways of seeing africa emerges from the fact that so many of the places that once dominated its landscape have disappeared from the world's maps the belgian congo rhodesia and kush are but a few of the locations that no longer can be found on a modern globe they were once central to the lives of millions of people but now they are gone they have become places lost in time travel and the pan african imagination explores the african atlantic world as a productive theater or space where modernity racialized dominance and racialized resistance took form the book stresses the importance of placing three atlantic figures the charleston south carolina based armed resistance leader denmark vesey the west african emigration advocate edward wilmot blyden and the christian missionary and teacher in liberia as well as the united states alexander crummell within an atlantic context and as african world community figures between the late eighteenth and early twentieth centuries the book also examines the religious origins of black power ideology and modern pan africanism as products of the intense dialogue within the african world community about concepts of modernity progress and civilization tracy keith flemming identifies how travel and social mobility led to the generation of an ever more complex and dynamic atlantic world and of a fluid and adaptive african world community imagination for those figures who were forced to operate within and against a racially framed universe the vexing social position and symbolic figure of the african was central to the dilemmas facing the racialized imagination of african world community figures and the discipline of africology this handbook places emphasis on modern contemporary times and offers relevant sophisticated and comprehensive overviews it aims to emphasize the religious economic political cultural and social connections between africa and the rest of the world and features comparisons as well as an interdisciplinary approach in order to examine the place of africa in global history this book makes an important contribution to the discussion on the place of africa in the world and of the world in africa an outstanding work of scholarship it powerfully demonstrates that africa is not marginal to global concerns its labor and resources have made our world and the continent deserves our respect mukhtar umar bunza professor of social history usmanu danfodiyo university sokoto and commissioner for higher education kebbi state nigeria this is a deep plunge into the critical place of africa in global history the handbook blends a rich set of important tapestries and analysis of the conceptual framework of african diaspora histories imperialism and globalization by foregrounding the authentic voices of african interpreters of transnational interactions and exchanges the handbook demonstrates a genuine commitment to the promotion of decolonized and indigenous knowledge on african continent and its peoples samuel oloruntoba visiting research professor institute of african studies carleton university based on a series of detailed case studies this book presents the history of genocide in africa within the specific context of african history examining conflicts in countries such as burundi democratic republic of congo namibia rwanda and sudan why has africa been the subject of so many accusations related to genocide indeed the number of such allegations related to africa has increased dramatically over the past 15 years popular racist mythology might suggest that africans belong to tribes that are inherently antagonistic towards each other and therefore engage in tribal warfare which cannot be rationally explained this concept is wrong as timothy j stapleton explains in a history of genocide in africa the many conflicts that have plagued post colonial africa have had very logical explanations and very few of these instances of african warring can be said to have resulted in genocide authored by an expert historian of africa this book examines the history of six african countries namibia rwanda burundi democratic republic of congo sudan and nigeria in which the language of genocide has been mobilized to describe episodes of tragic mass violence it seeks to place genocide within the context of african history acknowledging the few instances where the international legal term genocide has been applied appropriately to episodes of mass violence in african history and identifying the many other cases where it has not and instead the term has been used in a cynical manipulation to gain some political advantage readers will come to understand how to a large extent genocide accusations related to post colonial africa have often served to prolong wars and cause greater loss of life the book also clarifies how in areas of africa where genocides have actually occurred there appears to have been a common history of the imposition of racial ideologies and hierarchies during the colonial era which when combined with other factors such as the local geography demography religion and or economics resulted in tragic and appalling outcomes covering the entire continent from morocco libya and egypt in the north to the cape of good hope in the south and the surrounding islands from cape verde in the west to madagascar mauritius and seychelles in the east the encyclopedia of african history is a new a z reference resource on the history of the entire african continent with entries ranging from the earliest evolution of human beings in africa to the beginning of the twenty first century this comprehensive three volume encyclopedia is the first reference of this scale and scope also includes 99 maps for many in the west the mention of africa immediately conjures up images of safaris ferocious animals sparsely dressed tribesmen and impenetrable jungles newspaper headlines rarely touch on africa but when they do they often mention authoritarian rule corruption genocide devastating illnesses or civil war advertising movies amusement parks cartoons and many other corners of society all convey strong mental images of the continent that together form a collective consciousness few think to question these perceptions or how they came to be so deeply lodged in western minds mistaking africa looks at the historical evolution of this mind set and examines the role that popular media plays in its creation the authors address the most prevalent myths and preconceptions and demonstrate how these prevent a true understanding of the enormously diverse peoples and cultures of africa updated throughout the fifth edition considers images of africa from across the world and provides new analysis of what africans are doing themselves to rewrite the stories of their continent particularly through social and digital media mistaking africa is an important book for african studies courses and for anyone interested in unraveling misperceptions about the continent this book offers new perspectives on the history of exploitation in africa by examining postcolonial misrule as a product of colonial exploitation political independence has not produced inclusive institutions economic growth or social stability for most africans it has merely transferred the benefits of exploitation from colonial europe to a tiny african elite contributors investigate representations of colonial and postcolonial exploitation in literature and rhetoric covering works from african writers such as ngugi wa thiong o kwame nkrumah and bessie head it then moves to case studies drawing lines between colonial subjugation and present day challenges through essays on mobutu s zaire nigerian politics the italian colonial fascist system and more together these essays look towards how african states may transform their institutions and rupture lingering colonial legacies a primer for teaching african history is a guide for college and high school teachers who are teaching african history for the first time for experienced teachers who want to reinvigorate their courses for those who are training future teachers to prepare their own syllabi and for teachers who want to incorporate african history into their world history courses trevor r getz offers design principles aimed at facilitating a classroom experience that will help students navigate new knowledge historical skills ethical development and worldviews he foregrounds the importance of acknowledging and addressing student preconceptions about africa challenging chronological approaches to history exploring identity and geography as ways to access historical african perspectives and investigating the potential to engage in questions of ethics that studying african history provides in his discussions of setting goals pedagogy assessment and syllabus design getz draws readers into the process of thinking consciously and strategically about designing courses on african history that will challenge students to think critically about africa and the discipline of history the islamist challenge and africa examines islamist militancy among africans historically and at present a topic largely ignored in the united states it examines islamist militancy s longstanding presence in africa and its diaspora islamist militancy s distinct ideological features among africans and ways to minimize its violence missions states and european expansion in africa aims to explore the ways christianity and colonialism acted as hegemonic or counter hegemonic forces in the making of african societies as western interventionist forces christianity and colonialism were crucial in establishing and maintaining political cultural and economic domination indeed both elements of africa s encounter with the west played pivotal roles in shaping african societies during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries this volume uses a wide range of perspectives to address the intersection between missions evangelism and colonial expansion across africa the contributors address several issues including missionary collaboration with the colonizing effort of european powers disagreements between missionaries and colonizing agents the ways in which missionaries and colonial officials used language imagery and european epistemology to legitimize relations of inequality with africans and the ways in which both groups collaborated to transform african societies thus missions states and european expansion in africa transcends the narrow boundaries that often separate the role of these two elements of european encounter to argue that missionary endeavours and official colonial actions could all be conceptualized as hegemonic institutions in which both pursued the same civilizing mission even if they adopted different strategies in their encounter with african societies

South Africa since 1945 2021-12-27 missions states and european expansion in africa aims to explore the ways christianity and colonialism acted as hegemonic or counter hegemonic forces in the making of african societies as western interventionist forces christianity and colonialism were crucial in establishing and maintaining political cultural and economic domination indeed both elements of africa s encounter with the west played pivotal roles in shaping african societies during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries this volume uses a wide range of perspectives to address the intersection between missions evangelism and colonial expansion across africa the contributors address several issues including missionary collaboration with the colonizing effort of european powers disagreements between missionaries and colonizing agents the ways in which missionaries and colonial officials used language imagery and european epistemology to legitimize relations of inequality with africans and the ways in which both groups collaborated to transform african societies thus missions states and european expansion in africa transcends the narrow boundaries that often separate the role of these two elements of european encounter to argue that missionary endeavours and official colonial actions could all be conceptualized as hegemonic institutions in which both pursued the same civilizing mission even if they adopted different strategies in their encounter with african societies
