Premature Burial and how it May be Prevented ... 1896 offers potential solutions as well as terrifying anecdotes back cover

Premature Burial 2012 seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject american studies literature grade a university of graz language english abstract there is a certain clever rhetoric from the buried protagonist in the introduction the premature burial edgar allan poe s tale the boundaries which divide life from death are at best shadowy and vague who shall say where the one ends and the other begins poe 322 as he finds himself buried in what he believes to be a coffin as the story starts to intrigue us with one of the most terrifying and arguably uncanny experiences live burial the narrator is obsessed a walking dead man who eventually saves himself from the terrifying experience and exaggerated fear but not from the uncanny feeling it is as much dreadful as when we as readers perceive the buried alive lady madeline usher breaking the vault steel door of her coffin uttering eerie sounds and appearing bloody at her brother roderick s door in poe s even more gruesome tale the fall of the house of usher the protagonists too are quite different as are the representations of the motive of live burial in both stories one hand we deal with as this essay will try and prove an evident incestuous relationship and perhaps roderick s certain repressed wishes and on the other hand the exaggerated almost satiric general fear of a seemingly cataleptic state and death

Demystifying Strategic Thinking 2014-04-03 this book first published in 1981 examines the broader aspects of international strategic relations and analyses cold war developments within particular nations fields of warfare and areas of political military interaction the role of force in international society changed as the nuclear deadlock between the superpowers continued with military forces being deployed for political purposes in situations only just short of war the balance between nato and warsaw pact forces also changed as american technology increased and short range nuclear missiles were deployed in europe this book also examines the development of strategic thinking in china japan and india as well as insurgency in the third world so often the site for proxy superpower conflict

New Directions in Strategic Thinking 2021-01-26 an unusually comprehensive study of death as both a social and scientific phenomenon when we die is as frank as it is informed this far reaching discussion considers mortality from the personal and the universal perspective generously citing past and present poets and physicians from a diverse and telling range of traditions mims who for two decades served as professor of microbiology at london s guys hospital brings a humane inquisitive and learned sensibility to his topic this book is a light hearted but wide ranging survey of death the causes of death and the disposal of corpses writes mims it tells why we die and how we die and what happens to the dead body and its bits and pieces it describes the ways corpses are dealt with in different religions and in different parts of the world the methods for preserving bodies and the ways fascinating in their diversity in which corpses or parts of corpses are used and abused the volume also explores such crucial death based notions as the afterlife the soul and the prospect of immortality by way of the book s main focus mims continues we should take a more matter of fact view of death and accept it and talk about it more than we do as we have done with the once taboo subject of sex this is a work that any student of social anthropology will find equally enlightening and essential

Quarterly Review of Military Literature 1978 in antiquity the black sea region was a meeting point for several different population groups with diverse cultural backgrounds the present monograph takes its point of departure in burial data from four coastal localities in the northern region of the black sea the mortuary practices are decoded and interpreted within a framework mainly based on concepts of cultural interaction rather than cultural polarisation thus the dogma of the greeks and the others is challenged and alternative perceptions of interactions between the people in the black sea region form the basis of the study the burials are primarily analysed with emphasis on social strategies and cultural diversity furthermore the black sea region is set into a comparative perspective through an outlook on burial customs and mortuary practices in the colonial milieu of contemporary southern italy

Property and Power in English Gothic Literature 2015-12-29 literary nonfiction social science with his seventy two keys konrad becker aims to unlock the gates of strategic reality its construction over centuries its imposition through stealth and force its dull and laborious maintenance and its dissolution and destruction by those who can t take it anymore the subjects treated here range widely from affective images and conspired environments to hyperreal estate a high profile topic during the credit crunch of 2008 phantom induction reality maps synthetic fear etc these keys are communicational models of phantasmagoric systems which unlock and display for brief moments the operations of the complex machinery that stealthily attempts to recreate our own perceptions affects and expressions yet unlike the other systems which they so expertly mimic and reduplicate these have the grace of immediately dissolving into thin air while durably revealing the smoke and mirrors that appeared to give them substance

Strategies for Successful Writing 1991 conventional deterrence is a book about the origins of war why do nations faced with the prospect of large scale conventional war opt for or against an offensive strategy john j mearsheimer examines a number of crises that led to major conventional wars to explain why deterrence failed he focuses first on allied and german decision making in the years 1939 1940 analyzing why the allies did not strike first against germany after declaring war and conversely why the germans did attack the west turning to the middle east he examines the differences in israeli and egyptian strategic doctrines prior to the start of the major conventional conflicts in that region mearsheimer then critically assays the relative strengths and weaknesses of nato and the warsaw pact to determine the prospects for conventional deterrence in any future crisis he is also concerned with examining such relatively technical issues as the impact of precision guided munitions pgm on conventional deterrence and the debate over maneuver versus attrition warfare mearsheimer pays considerable attention to questions of military strategy and tactics challenging the claim that conventional detrence is largely a function of the numerical balance of forces he also takes issue with the school of thought that ascribes deterrence failures to the dominance of offensive weaponry in addition to examining the military consideration underlying deterrence he also analyzes the interaction between those military factors and the broader political considerations that move a nation to war

Strategies for College Writing 1999-08 more information is always better and full information is best more computation is always better and optimization is best more is better ideals such as these have long shaped our vision of rationality yet humans and other animals typically rely on simple heuristics to solve adaptive problems focusing on one or a few important cues and ignoring the rest and shortcutting computation rather than striving for as much as possible in this book we argue that in an uncertain world more information and computation are not always better and we ask when and why less can be more the answers to these questions constitute the idea of ecological rationality how we are able to achieve intelligence in the world by using simple heuristics matched to the environments we face exploiting the structures inherent in our physical biological social and cultural surroundings
