Educational Interests Of School Students

2004

Abstract: This study aims to identify the educational interests of school students. The research was conducted through a survey of 100 students from various schools. The results show that students are most interested in subjects related to science, technology, and the environment. The study also found that students' interests are influenced by their parents and teachers. The findings suggest that educators should focus on providing more practical and hands-on learning experiences to engage students and foster their interests in these areas.

the global status report on road safety 2018 launched by who in december 2018 highlights that the number of annual road traffic deaths has reached 1 35 million road traffic injuries are now the leading killer of people aged 5 29 years the burden is disproportionately borne by pedestrians cyclists and motorcyclists in particular those living in developing countries the report suggests that the price paid for mobility is too high especially because proven measures exist drastic action is needed to put these measures in place to meet any future global target that might be set and save lives during the country s dictatorship from 1973 to 1985 uruguayans suffered under crushing repression which included the highest rate of political incarceration in the world in of light and struggle debbie sharnak explores how activists transnational social movements and international policymakers collaborated and clashed in response to this era and during the country s transition back to democratic rule at the heart of the book is an examination of how the language and politics of human rights shifted over time as a result of conflict and convergence between local national and global dynamics sharnak examines the utility and limits of human rights language used by international ngos such as amnesty international and foreign governments such as the carter administration she does so by exploring tensions between their responses to the dictatorship s violations and the grassroots struggle for socioeconomic rights as well as new social movements around issues of race gender religion and sexuality in uruguay sharnak exposes how international activists used human rights language to combat repression in foreign countries how local politicians unionists and students articulated more expansive social justice visions how the military attempted to coopt human rights language for its own purposes and how broader debates about human rights transformed the fight over citizenship in renewed democratic societies by exploring the interplay between debates taking place in activists living rooms presidential administrations and international halls of power sharnak uncovers the messy and contingent process through which human rights became a powerful discourse for social change and thus contributes to a new method for exploring the history of human rights by looking at this pivotal period in international history of light and struggle suggests that discussions around the small country on the río de la plata had global implications for the possibilities and constraints of human rights well beyond uruguay s shores
