Money and Good Intentions Are Not Enough 2010-12-01

state governments are spending a lot accomplishing too little and failing to meet their responsibilities to the public in this book john brandl argues that the usual remedies for ineffective government bureaucracy cutting or adding to budgets urging civil servants to become more entrepreneurial hiring tougher managers or appointing smarter bureaucrats won't provide substantial long term improvement examining public schools brandl points out that although real spending per student has tripled in the last 30 years and the average class size has shrunk from 27 to 17 educational performance has become a national disgrace he provides alternative policies that rely on harnessing self interest through competition and incentives and encouraging affiliations that inspire community to forge a strong connection between spending and results
