union that democracy beyond the borders of the nation state has first been realized constituting a guiding principle for global governance master s thesis from the year 2015 in the subject politics international politics topic miscellaneous grade 16 20 university of antwerp course federalism language english abstract in literature easton s conception of diffuse support is a key concept in evaluating the institutional design and structural mechanisms of a political system based on citizen attitudes nevertheless diffuse support as a concept remains a challenge to operationalise the political system of belgian federalism as such would be served with a custom measure of diffuse support the federal system in belgium is praised by political scientists for its consensus building mechanisms to appease political conflicts between the regions and language communities yet the cultural and political separateness between flanders and wallonia still remains considering the seeming lack of agreement between political elites and difficult decision making in recent belgian history and the federal elections of 2019 having the most volatile electoral outcomes in long time a study examining the level of support belgian citizens have towards the belgian federal system and how diffuse support is potentially affected by the regional separateness would be relevant by constructing a model step by step with support for the division of competences between the federal and regional levels as an indicator for diffuse support and several other predictors of political attitudes we demonstrate that levels of support for the division of competences is significantly lower in flanders although levels of support still are appropriate in both regions albeit we did not succeed in determining our measure of support for division of competences being a valid indicator for diffuse support throughout the world liberal democracies are grappling with increasing claims made in the name of minority national socio cultural and ethno cultural identities that seek greater recognition in the institutions of the nation state this work inserts itself into debates centred on diversity through a normative and empirical analytical assessment of the political sociology of multinational democracies the main thread of the arguments put forward is that federalism in both its institutional manifestations and its sociological properties constitutes a promising avenue for the management of cohabitating political communities and for the affirmation of collective identities within states that are constituted by two or more nations author alain g gagnon develops his argument by contending that the federal principle allows for the exercise of advanced democratic practices within nation states permitting internal nations to openly affirm the bases of adherence to a common political project at the same time he argues that federalism nourishes the development of distinct collective traditions that serve to benefit all parties to the association it is concluded that only in such a scenario will the elusive pursuit of an authentic and shared loyalty underpin multination states and ensure their stability in contrast to the instrumental sentiments of belonging engendered by procedural territorial federal models focusing primarily on the canadian case this book also draws inspiration from other federal states belgium the united states as well as federalizing states spain the united kingdom it will be of keen interest to students and scholars of politics european studies along with nationalism and federalism studies
