Reconfiguring the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor

2021-11-28

there has been a great deal of speculation and prognostication about the china pakistan economic corridor cpec the project s name suggests it is intended to be an economic corridor connecting pakistan overland with china s xinjiang province this book examines whether cpec s primary purpose is as an overland conduit for trade and economic cooperation between china and pakistan the key finding is that aims related to regional geopolitics and internal security have in reality a more significant impact the book demonstrates that china s goals in pakistan are primarily geopolitical rather than geo economic since the notion of constructing an economic and transportation corridor between pakistan and china is logistically and economically problematic due to a range of foreseeable problems most importantly border disputes with india and the containment of domestic separatism motivate are the driving forces for cooperation between the partners this book will be of interest to scholars who research the bri as well as policy makers

Economic Corridor Development in Pakistan

this study examines the potential of economic corridor development to support pakistan s sustainable growth it describes the country s effort to enhance domestic and international connectivity and includes some international good practices for economic corridor development in other countries the study assesses whether the government should commit substantive resources to prepare a detailed development plan to transform its transport corridors into dynamic economic corridors it leads to a conclusion that that political commitment at the highest government levels and coordination among diverse government agencies are essential to developing economic corridors

China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC)

master s thesis from the year 2016 in the subject politics international politics region south asia grade 1 65 university of erfurt willy brandt school language english abstract in recent times chinese foreign policy has transformed considerably and it is apparent that china now aims to reinvent its global image and also step up its clout and impact at the international level it also aims to give rise to an economic order that serves chinese interests something that china cannot expect from the largely western dominated institutions the establishment of the asian infrastructure investment bank aiib was a decisive step in this direction in a broader sense this can be related to china s ambitious one belt one road obor initiative which envisages the revival of the erstwhile silk road through two major projects a silk road economic belt and a 21st century maritime silk road in april 2015 president xi jinping announced 46 billion dollar investment plans in pakistan in the shape of the china pakistan economic corridor cpec which will connect the chinese city of kashgar to the strategically located gwadar port in pakistan this was conceived as a part of the obor initiative although a daunting undertaking the successful completion of this project would result in unparalleled economic and strategic gains for both the parties involved also the increased cooperation between these two neighbors engenders major ramifications for the foreign relations of both the countries this thesis attempts to take a closer look at the cpec and expound the strategic implications of the project for both china and pakistan that would require extra ordinary engineering resources to execute massive amounts to fund and extreme political acumen to manage the untameable societal fissures that indeed is a tall and complex order the corridor brings up a host of strategic adversities to india while pumping up pakistan s innate anti indian dogma and china s compulsive india averseness the corridor violates india s sovereignty even if disputed over the pakistan occupied kashmir and consolidates the duo s political nexus with conjoined military capabilities against india india s problems are further exacerbated when the initiative consolidates pakistan s illegal occupation of north western kashmir and inter alia seals the severance of india s traditional land connectivity s with afghanistan and the central asian republics this book besides describing the plans and challenges of construction and gainful management thereafter highlights that since china believes in crystallising its dream with the backing of political and by implication military power it is obvious that the initiative would have more than just purely economic consequences

the china pakistan economic corridor cpec is not a single road it s a network it will spur the growth of industrial zones supported by energy plants connecting kashgar in china to gwadar balochistan should be the primary beneficiary of the project khyber pakhtunkhwa will also benefit from it as there s no discrimination against any province china pakistan economic corridor programme cpec is anchored the programme amounts to over 45 billion us dollars and was agreed between the two countries in april 2015 the corridor has its starting point in the chinese built port of gwadar on pakistani balochistan s southern coast at the arabian sea and is linked to chinese funded infrastructural mega projects that are regional in nature the hype surrounding the china pakistan economic corridor cpec to be built through gilgit baltistan resurfaced with the recent visit of chinese president xi Jinping to pakistan the visit yet again generated an animated discourse in the global media about the corridor s future the long gestated cpec project received initial traction during nawaz sharif s visits to china in the year 2014 subsequently on his maiden visit to pakistan in april 2015 the chinese president reaffirmed the previously announced commitment worth 46 billion towards the cpec the cpec is considered a significant project that seeks to cement sino pakistan bilateral ties and further consolidate their strategic ties the corridor will run through india s periphery more significantly gilgit baltistan claimed by india as part of the erstwhile princely state of jammu and kashmir j k in due course this geographical reality of the cpec could potentially impinge upon india s geopolitical calculations and pose a strategic challenge india needs to be concerned about china attempting to replicate in pok the well perfected policy it has applied earlier in tibet xinjiang and across central asia beijing would be seeking a historic opportunity to fill up gaps where india has largely failed considering pok s strategic location as a connecting point of south west central and east asia china s move has implications for limiting india s outreach to the critical eurasian region this book will definitely prove to be a boon to teachers students and research scholars in pakistan is considered a game changer for pakistan s economy as a flagship project of china s one belt one road initiative the corridor will connect kashgar in western china with the port of gwadar in pakistan on the arabian sea serving as a gateway to the middle east africa and central asia the cpec in addition to boosting pakistan s economy and meeting china s energy needs and development of its western region is likely to bring stability in the region through economic integration nonetheless a project of such scale certainly faces equally significant challenges this thesis examines obstacles that have the potential to affect the implementation of the project including the unstable situation in afghanistan competing interests of immediate neighbors like india and iran especially india s suspicions and u s concerns about the initiative the thesis draws from a wide range of scholarly and peer reviewed literature academic journals think tank reports and government sponsored studies missing from their analysis though is the consideration of the regional geopolitical dynamics and pakistan s domestic challenges particularly insecurity and violence that can affect the implementation of the cpec project this thesis seeks to address that gap and provides policy recommendations for pakistan to deal with potential impediments in implementation of the project

China Pakistan Economic Corridor Needs a Counter Strategy of India

the china pakistan economic corridor cpec has been earmarked as a flagship project of the belt and road initiative bri which is described as chinese president xi jinping s signature foreign policy initiative and a grand strategy aimed at restoring china s rightful great power status in the world it is a major plank in china s geo strategic and economic architecture for the region using pakistan to secure an exploitative strategic perch in south asia and the arabian sea overlooking the crucial persian gulf the west coast of india and the east coast of africa it is increasingly clear that not only will the cpec extract a high price from pakistan in terms of its sovereignty it will also entail a substantial if not downright usurious economic cost the opaque nature of the cpec and its geostrategic underpinnings detract vastly from any economic growth and development that it may deliver these are some of the issues that this paper attempts to scan

China Pakistan Economic Corridor

abstract the china pakistan economic corridor cpec constitutes one of the largest foreign investments china has made in the framework of the one belt one road initiative the expenditures planned for the coming years in the amount of approximately 46 billion will further intensify relations between china and pakistan at the same time pakistan will assume a more prominent role in china s foreign policy but cpec also affects relations between india and pakistan the transport corridor between pakistan and china traverses jammu and kashmir the status of which has been a subject of contention between india and pakistan since 1947 this constellation would seem to suggest a negative scenario whereby cpec could place additional strain on india pakistan relations on the other hand a positive scenario is also conceivable with a settlement of the kashmir dispute even becoming possible in the long term author s abstract with the cpec pakistan may have a new infrastructure on its land but it is for the chinese goods and lorries and to advance the chinese global agenda aim of the cpec is not to empower pakistan and its people in view of many pakistanis this new relationship is not an economic partnership with china it is a new form of colonialism but if the pakistani ruling elite and people of pakistan are happy with this new relationship then no one from outside can help them the china pakistan economic corridor cpec is essentially a framework for regional connectivity the aim of the project is to connect china's north western region of xinjiang to the gwadar port of baluchistan it is a part of the belt and road initiative a chinese initiative for boosting multinational economic cooperation and prosperity at the international level legality is frequently overshadowed by geopolitics when it comes to a project such as the belt and road initiative despite being initiated at the international level the entire project is entirely dependent on the domestic legal frameworks of the member states for actual implementation the china pakistan economic corridor requires that the legal system in pakistan is geared and ready for the incoming projects and the inevitable legal disputes that may arise given the involvement of several private parties from both china and pakistan the current international treaties and covenants between the two nations will also play a significant role in the success of the cpec as any development and investment from china into pakistan will be governed by these treaties apart from the legal practicalities of the actual cpec projects the legal tangle between india and pakistan over the gilgit baltistan issue will also play an important role in determining the success of the cpec this monograph makes an attempt to cut through the political rhetoric and promises of economic development from china to see whether the legal climate in pakistan is suitable for the cpec to take off and bring in the promised economic rewards that pakistan hopes to gain by partnering with china part i the international trade and investment regime between china and pakistan part ii dispute settlement framework for cpec part iii india s legal concerns over territorial sovereignty role in cpec the way forward legal or political

this book is a study of the china pakistan economic corridor cpec that ranges vastly beyond the pakistan centric literature that is commonly used in related studies it delves into the history and contemporary experience of big infrastructure thinks carefully about the economic development of western china draws from the long established chinese investment projects across africa and grounds this in a careful political economy understanding of contemporary pakistan it seeks to explore the pervasive politico economic question of whether the cpec is a falcon economy or debt induced dependency the work draws on an extensive literature that has analysed in detail the functioning of special economic zones across various countries in africa where the china africa engagement is well into its second decade and offers important lessons for pakistan an aspect of the rationale of this book comes from looking more closely at china not just as a source of financing and fdi but at the economic changes that are happening in western china that part of china to which pakistan will be tethered by cpec infrastructure new roads don t just make it easier for firms in pakistan to export they also make it easier for chinese firms to export to pakistan it makes a substantial difference if industrial enterprises are opening in western china and are readying themselves to export high quality and low cost production to pakistan how does this impact the pakistani industry this book looks in detail at economic development in the western chinese province of xinjiang and thinks carefully about the implications for pakistan
